ALA Honors Top Youth Authors and Illustrators

Newbery Medal
The Graveyard Book
Neil Gaiman
HarperCollins Publishers

Caldecott Medal
The House in the Night
Beth Krommes, written by Susan Marie Swanson
Houghton Mifflin Company

Sibert Medal
We Are The Ship: The Story of Negro League Baseball
Kadir Nelson
Jump at the Sun/Hyperion Books for Children

Coretta Scott King Author Award
We Are the Ship: The Story of the Negro League Baseball
Kadir Nelson
Jump at the Sun/ Hyperion Books for Children

Coretta Scott King Illustrator Award
The Blacker the Berry
Floyd Cooper, written by Joyce Carol Thomas
Amistad

User Lists
User Tagging
Item Mapping
User Reviews
Genre Browsing
RSS Searching
Faceted Results

Geisel Award
Are You Ready to Play Outside
Mo Willems
Hyperion Books for Young Readers

Pura Belpre Illustrator Award
Just in Case
Yuyi Morales
A Neal Porter Book published by Roaring Brook Press

Pura Belpre Author Award
The Surrender Tree
Margarita Engle
Henry Holt and Company, LLC

Batchelder Award
Moribito: Guardian of the Spirit
Nahoko Uehashi
Arthur A. Levine Books

William C. Morris Award
A Curse Dark as Gold
Elizabeth C. Bunce
Arthur A. Levine Books

Geisel Award
We Are The Ship: The Story of Negro League Baseball
Kadir Nelson
Jump at the Sun/Hyperion Books for Children

Printz Award
Jellicoe Road
Melina Marchetta, HarperTeen

Schneider Family Book Award
Age 0-10
Piano Starts Here: The Young Art
Tatum
Robert Andrew Parker
Schwartz & Wade Books

Schneider Family Book Award
Age 11–13
Waiting for Normal
Leslie Connor
HarperCollins Children's Books

Margaret A. Edwards Award
Catalyst
Viking Children's Books
Fever 1793
Simon & Schuster Books for Young Readers
Speak
Puffin Books

Wilder Award
Ashley Bryan
Dancing Granny, Beat the Story-Drum, Pum-Pum and Beautiful Blackbird

May Hill Arbuthnot Lecture
Kathleen T. Horning

Carnegie Medal
March On! The Day My Brother Martin Changed the World
Paul R. Gagne and Melissa Reilly
Weston Woods Studios

Schneider Family Book Award
Age 13–18
Jerk, California
Jonathan Friesen
Speak

Alex Awards
City of Thieves
David Benioff
Viking Penguin

Odd and Under
Todd Tucker
Thomas Dunne Books
The Oxford Project
Stephen G. Bloom
Welcome Books
Sharp Teeth
Toby Barlow
Harper

Three Girls and Their Brother
Theresa Rebeck
Shaye Areheart Books

Carnegie Medal
March On! The Day My Brother Martin Changed the World
Paul R. Gagne and Melissa Reilly
Weston Woods Studios

Schneider Family Book Award
Age 11–13
Waiting for Normal
Leslie Connor
HarperCollins Children's Books

See Awards Listings, on pages 5, 6, 17
Everything has been leading to this.

Summon™
Unified Discovery Service

We’ve all been dreaming of the day when the library could be searched as easily as Google searches the World Wide Web. Stop dreaming and meet the revolutionary new Summon™ unified discovery service from Serials Solutions. The Summon™ service goes beyond federated search, beyond next-generation catalogs to create an all-new solution for libraries. Through one simple entry point, it provides instant access to the breadth of authoritative content that’s the hallmark of great libraries – digital and print, audio and video, single articles to an entire e-journal, and every format in between. Collected, updated, and indexed by Serials Solutions, the Summon™ unified discovery service creates what we’ve always dreamed of... a simple entry that instantly delivers accurate, credible, and relevance-ranked results, reflecting the abundance of your library.

Visit us at booth 1904 or serialssolutions.com/summon to learn more.
Peace Prize Winner Speaks at President’s Program

By Stacy Voeller
Minnesota State University, Moorhead

J im Rettig’s ALA President’s Program showcased Dr. Muhammad Yunus, 2006 Nobel Peace Prize winner and author of Banker To The Poor: Micro-Lending and the Battle Against World Poverty and Creating a World Without Poverty. Social Business and the Future of Capitalism. Yunus received the prestigious Peace Prize because of his work to help the poorest of the poor in Third World countries break the cycle of poverty. To do this, he founded the Grameen Bank in order to make microloans to entrepreneurial individuals.

Yunus’ journey began when he returned to Bangladesh to help rebuild it, just as the country began when he returned to Bangladesh to entrepreneurial meen Bank in order to eliminate poverty. To do this, he founded the Grameen Bank in order to make microloans to entrepreneurial individuals.

It turned out that 42 people owed $27 to the loan sharks. Yunus “could not believe that people had to suffer so much for so little. The problem was difficult, but the solution was so simple, if I would give the $27, I could solve the problem for these people, and that is what I did.”

Yunus decided to go out and talk to the people about what could be done to make their lives better and soon found that those suffering the most were those in debt to loan sharks and being turned into slave laborers. It turned out that 42 people owed $27 to the loan sharks. Yunus “could not believe that people had to suffer so much for so little. The problem was difficult, but the solution was so simple, if I would give the $27, I could solve the problem for these people, and that is what I did.”

He thought about how he could do more as bank managers repeatedly said there was no way they would loan money to the poor people. Yunus offered to be the guarantor for the poor people.

Yunus’ bank is very different from any traditional bank in that most of his borrower’s are women. He believes “we have created so much fear in these women...If you can find one woman to try and she’s successful, then other women will find the courage to try too.”

Today, over 7.5 million women are among their borrowers. Yunus advises “don’t be deceived by how people look or talk, that is what history has done. Don’t take that distorted vision of who people are.”

BARC Presents Budget Analysis

Jim Neal, chair of the Budget Analysis and Review Committee (BARC) presented an overview of the saliency of the ALA budget of 2008 compared to the previous year of 2007 at the ALA Council/Executive Board/Membership Information Session on Sunday.

“One view of the ALA budget is to look at the consolidated balance sheet summary,” said Neal. “The net operating income for 2008 shows a very significant and positive change.”

Neal added, “It’s always important to see where money comes into the association. Clearly dues, publishing, meetings and conferences play a significant part.” He also noted that there is an “almost massive increase” in grants and awards income.

In looking at the general fund, Neal said that the net operating revenue improved by 44 percent from 2007. “It’s in the area of endowments that we are seeing the trend that we are having as individuals [in our personal budgets] — and we are down in this area. In the short term the impact is modest, but we need to watch for how this might impact scholarships in the future.” He emphasized how critical strategic planning is right now for the work of the association.

What’s Shakin’ in the ALA Placement Center

By Brad Martin
ABC News

Despite historically tough economic times, job seekers and employers continue to connect with each other at ALA’s Midwinter Meeting in Denver.

Beatrice Calvin, manager of the ALA Human Resource Development and Recruitment (HRDR) Placement Center, said that activity has been relatively light, but “the orientation session was a standing-room only event, and that the center’s resume critiquing service was getting a lot of activity.”

While the number of employers in attendance in the booths was visibly lower, several libraries came out to market themselves to prospective employees, and some said they made cuts in their recruitment budgets elsewhere so they could participate at the placement center.

Among the dozen or so employers staffing booths in the center was the Las Vegas–Clark County Library District. Jerilyn Gregory, human resources director, said, “The reason we are here is that we have a number of staff nearing retirement and we need to look for the next generation of librarians.”

Gregory added that her library made the decision to attend because, despite not having many current openings, they recognize the need to keep their name out there nationally, and that they believe the ALA placement center offered good value for their advertising budget. London Porter, also with Las Vegas–Clark County Library District, said they were actively seeking an executive director, but reiterated that they were mainly interested in taking the opportunity for overall marketing purposes.

Alonzo Clark, Jr., director of human resources for Los Angeles Public Library (whose booth neighbor was Chicago Public Library), said that his library routinely has around 20 to 25 vacancies that are not always possible to fill — sometimes, as now, for budget reasons, and other times because, “it has always been a small applicant pool.” He echoed the importance of marketing the library, even in tough times.

Employers and job seekers connected with each other — often in advance of arriving — via Joblist (http://joblist.ala.org), which enables such things as online searching for open positions or potential employees, uploading of resumes and scheduling of interviews.

Share Your Career Services Success

Did you discover a dream position through Joblist? Did you find a placement through HRDR’s Placement Center? Did you find a new hire, we would love to hear from you. No story is too small, and no story is too large!

Submit your stories to library.careerstories@gmail.com. We are also looking for librarians willing to share their stories through multimedia outlets, such as a vodcast or podcast, so please tell us if you are interested! We look forward to hearing all the wonderful stories that 35 years of career services have created!
Science Fiction Duo Headlines Sunday’s Sunrise Speakers Program

By Frederick J. Augustyn, Jr.
The Library of Congress

Past President Lorene Roy on Jan. 25 introduced Dom Testa and Kevin J. Anderson, two casually-attired science fiction and fantasy authors for a discussion on writing before their scheduled book-signing appearances in the exhibit area. Testa, co-host of the popular Denver morning radio program, the “Dom and Jane Show,” jocularly pointed out the similarities and differences between him and Anderson. While both live in Colorado, Testa said that Anderson has written approximately a hundred books, while he has read that many. Coloradans familiar with the “14ers,” the 14 highest peaks in the state, might be interested to know that while Anderson has climbed all of them, Testa has at least seen them all.

Anderson is such an avid outdoorsman, and a member of the Explorers Club composed of those who pursue the vigorous life, that he often writes books while hiking, dictating the text into recorders. He confessed that he needs to work in a disciplined, interactive side while writing in relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so constant in his life. He does not write specifically to sell or to win awards. He writes books to make young adults fall in love with reading rather than deliberately crafting message-laden tales. Anderson concurred and stated that “you get kids hooked on reading by giving them something that they want to read.” Both agreed, however, that themes rather than heavy messages appear naturally in their books.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relatively isolated environment. Testa conducts writing workshops at the elementary and middle school levels. In response to a query from Anderson, Testa addressed the quandary of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

In response to a query from Anderson, Testa addressed the quandary of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.

Anderson opined that Testa’s radio program may satisfy his extroverted, interactive side while writing in relative isolation. Testa addressed the question of finding time to write. Testa stated that he needs to work in a disciplined, relatively isolated environment. He often composes in a study room in a library where the distractions of email, telephones, and television are not so present. Testa writes in longhand on occasions, although primarily on a laptop. He often mouths the dialogue of his characters while composing, which he admits must look strange in the glass-enclosed library area.
BCALA Announces the 2009 Literary Awards Winners

The Black Caucus of the American Library Association, Inc. (BCALA) announced the winners of the 2009 BCALA Literary Awards. The awards recognize excellence in adult fiction and nonfiction by African American authors published in 2008.

The winner in the Fiction category is Trading Dreams at Midnight by Diane McKinney-Whetstone (HarperCollins). The two Fiction Honor Book winners are Seen it All and Done the Rest by Pearl Cleage (One World/Ballantine) and Where the Line Bleeds by Jesmyn Ward (Agate).

Dreams deferred, shattered hopes, unfulfilled fantasies are all interwoven themes in Trading Dreams at Midnight. It is a riveting portrayal of family ties that bind and separate throughout three generations of women. The protagonist’s search for the mother who disappeared when she and her sister were teenagers and her constant challenge to free herself from the dictates of her grandmother are the constant challenge to free herself from the demons that have tormented her throughout life; and she receives help in doing this from a seemingly unlikely source.

In Seen it All and Done the Rest, Josephine Evans has been a highly celebrated and well-known actress in Europe for the last twenty years. She leaves Amsterdam to return home to Atlanta for a brief visit after the head of her theater company threatens to replace her with a younger actress. She visits her granddaughter, Zora, in Atlanta’s West End neighborhood, the scene of several of Cleage’s previous novels. In addition to re-evaluating her own life, she helps Zora deal with the aftermath of being publicly humiliated in a local tabloid newspaper after a friend of hers was involved in a scandal. Josephine rekindles old friendships and becomes a community activist to save her family property with the help of her granddaughter. Involvement in something besides their own problems helps both Zora and Josephine resolve their issues and develop a closer bond.

Twins Joshua and Christophe mature from boys to men in Where the Line Bleeds, a tale of life, love and relationships in the rural Mississippi Gulf Coast. The brothers, abandoned by negligent parents, were nurtured into adulthood by their grandmother. After graduating from high school each goes his separate way as personality, fortune and destiny dictate. Christopher becomes a drug dealer, much to the disapproval of honest, hardworking, Joshua. Complicating the already strained bond between the brothers is the reappearance of their long lost troubled father.

The winner in the Nonfiction category is Ida: A Sword Among Lions by Paula J. Giddings (Amistad/HarperCollins). The nonfiction honor book winner is Letter To My Daughter by Maya Angelou (Random House, Inc.).

Ida: A Sword Among Lions is a brilliantly written biography of Ida B. Wells, an amazing African American woman. Dreams deferred, shattered hopes, unfulfilled fantasies are all interwoven themes in Trading Dreams at Midnight. In this compilation of essays, Letter To My Daughter, Maya Angelou provides a personal and spiritual tour of her life experiences. Although she is the mother of only one biological child, a son, Angelou addresses these essays to her thousands of daughters world-wide.

The recipient of the First Novelist Award is Carleen Brice for Orange Mint and Honey (One World/Ballentine). Shay Dixon, a broke and burned out graduate student, is forced to return home to live with her alcoholic mother who had abandoned her as a child. Her mother is now clean and sober and has another young daughter. Shay is forced to deal with her feelings for her mother and new sister. She needs to try to forgive her mother while healing herself in this honest and bittersweet journey to self-discovery.

For excellence in scholarship, the BCALA Literary Awards Committee presents the Outstanding Contribution to Publishing Citation to Obama: The Historic Campaign in Photographs (Amistad/HarperCollins) by Deborah Willis and Kevin Merida. This work provides an historic and intimate portrayal of the remarkable journey that led to Barack Obama becoming the 44th President of the United States. The captivating photographs selected by Willis are combined with keen commentary by Merida to chronicle the incredible 2008 campaign.
Youth Media Award Honors

King Author Honor Books

* The Blacher the Berry
  Joyce Carol Thomas
  Amistad

* Keeping the Night Watch
  Hope Anita Smith
  Henry Holt and Company

* Becoming Billie Holiday
  Carole Boston Weatherford
  Wordsong

King Illustrator Honor Books

* We Are the Ship: The Story of Negro League Baseball
  Kadir Nelson

Changes

- ACRL Board of Directors/Budget & Finance Joint Meeting, Sheraton Silver, today, 8 to 9 a.m., CANCELLED
- Joint Membership Reception is advertised as occurring between 6 and 8 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 26. The correct time should be between 6 and 7:30 p.m.

The GLBTRT Stonewall Book Awards Announced

The GLBTRT Stonewall Book Awards Committee is proud to announce the 2009 awards for nonfiction and literature. The Barbara Gittings Literature Award winner is Light Fell by Evan Fallenberg, published by Soho Press. Set in the context of Professor Joseph Licht’s 50th birthday party, this debut novel sensitively expresses and portrays the dilemma of an Israeli gay man who twenty years before left his wife and five young sons for the love of another man. Now Joseph is trying to reconcile this life changing decision with his responsibility to his family, his spirituality, and his God.

The Israel Fishman Non-Fiction Award winner is Dishonorable Passions: Sodomy Laws in America, 1861–2003 by William N. Eskridge Jr., published by Viking. This landmark volume explores a historically under represented area of GLBT legal and social scholarship. The destructive impact of sodomy laws is traced through their evolution and the consequences for the men and women who were impacted by their creation and enforcement. It makes a complex subject approachable for a general audience.

The GLBTRT Stonewall Book Awards Announced

The GLBTRT Stonewall Book Awards Committee is proud to announce the 2009 awards for nonfiction and literature. The Barbara Gittings Literature Award winner is Light Fell by Evan Fallenberg, published by Soho Press. Set in the context of Professor Joseph Licht’s 50th birthday party, this debut novel sensitively expresses and portrays the dilemma of an Israeli gay man who twenty years before left his wife and five young sons for the love of another man. Now Joseph is trying to reconcile this life changing decision with his responsibility to his family, his spirituality, and his God.

The Israel Fishman Non-Fiction Award winner is Dishonorable Passions: Sodomy Laws in America, 1861–2003 by William N. Eskridge Jr., published by Viking. This landmark volume explores a historically under represented area of GLBT legal and social scholarship. The destructive impact of sodomy laws is traced through their evolution and the consequences for the men and women who were impacted by their creation and enforcement. It makes a complex subject approachable for a general audience.

The GLBTRT Stonewall Book Awards Announced

The GLBTRT Stonewall Book Awards Committee is proud to announce the 2009 awards for nonfiction and literature. The Barbara Gittings Literature Award winner is Light Fell by Evan Fallenberg, published by Soho Press. Set in the context of Professor Joseph Licht’s 50th birthday party, this debut novel sensitively expresses and portrays the dilemma of an Israeli gay man who twenty years before left his wife and five young sons for the love of another man. Now Joseph is trying to reconcile this life changing decision with his responsibility to his family, his spirituality, and his God.

The Israel Fishman Non-Fiction Award winner is Dishonorable Passions: Sodomy Laws in America, 1861–2003 by William N. Eskridge Jr., published by Viking. This landmark volume explores a historically under represented area of GLBT legal and social scholarship. The destructive impact of sodomy laws is traced through their evolution and the consequences for the men and women who were impacted by their creation and enforcement. It makes a complex subject approachable for a general audience.
Visit Swets Booth 1642 for SwetsWise Presentations!

Presentation attendees will receive a complimentary flash drive. Enter our drawing to win a gift card for your very own iPhone!

√ SwetsWise Selection Support – Combines holdings information with usage statistics to help libraries make logical acquisition decisions.

√ SwetsWise eSource Manager – Offers the largest collection of standard publisher license conditions through a pre-populated database.

√ eBooks & MyiLibrary – Simplify your library’s electronic resource needs—order serials and eBooks from a single source. Gain access to MyiLibrary’s package of nearly 100,000 eBook titles.

Presentation schedule:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Products</th>
<th>January 23</th>
<th>January 24</th>
<th>January 25</th>
<th>January 26</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SwetsWise eSource Manager</td>
<td>5:45 pm</td>
<td>10:00 am</td>
<td>10:00 am</td>
<td>10:00 am</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SwetsWise Selection Support</td>
<td>6:15 pm, 6:45 pm</td>
<td>11:00 am, 2:00 pm</td>
<td>11:00 am, 2:00 pm</td>
<td>10:30 am</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>eBooks/MyiLibrary</td>
<td>7:15 pm</td>
<td>3:00 pm</td>
<td>3:00 pm</td>
<td>11:00 am</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Data are the words where knowledge is the story.

Give your users a new way to make discoveries. Find connections and trends that impact your institution’s research. And take an integrated approach that facilitates accurate decision-making.

Continue your quest for knowledge at Booth 1722!
Visit our Technology Showcase: Monday, 10 am • Pueblo Theater 1

ISI WEB OF KNOWLEDGE™ EndNote®
Thank You Library Partners for ’08
Plan now for 2009

10,000+ patrons and hundreds of staff trained on downloading books & more.
Contact us for 2009 dates!

August ’08
10 New York City (NY)
11 Queens (NY)
12 Brooklyn (NY)
13 Nassau County (NY)
14 Stamford (CT)
15 Gannville (NY)
17 Middletown (NY)
20 Boston (MA)
28 Agawam – C/W Mars (MA)

September ’08
3  8  4 Washington DC
13 Fairfax County (VA)
14 Ocean City (MD)
15 Baltimore (MD)
19 Waldorf (MD)
20 Loudoun County (VA)
22 Bowie (MD)
24 Bridgewater (NJ)
27 Cleveland (OH)
28 Chesterland (OH)
29 Hudson (OH)

October ’08
4 Flint (MI)
5 Schaumburg – My Media Mall (IL)
7 Naperville (IL)
10 Evansville (IN)
11 St. Louis (MO)
12 St. Charles City-County (MO)
30 Birmingham (AL)

November ’08
1 Gwinnett County (GA)
7 Jacksonville (FL)
8  8  9 Gainesville (FL)
12 Orlando (FL)
14 Broward County (FL)
15 Miami (FL)
17 Cape Coral (FL)
18 19 Ft. Myers (FL)
21 Naples (FL)

December ’08
3 Baton Rouge (LA)
4 Lake Charles (LA)
6 Harris County (TX)
7 San Antonio (TX)
10 Frisco (TX)
11 Denton (TX)
17 Lubbock (TX)

January ’09
Tour resumes!

“The Digital Bookmobile helps libraries grab extremely positive media attention!”
~ Deb Czarnik, Lee County Library System (Fl)

“In the month following our Digital Bookmobile event, our new patron registration went up 944%.”
~ Michael Colford, Boston Public Library (MA)

www.digitalbookmobile.com

Visit us at Booth 2042 to be part of the NATIONAL TOUR

The Global Leader in Library Downloads powered by OverDrive

www.overdrive.com  216.573.6886 x4

OverDrive  Download Services for Libraries

audio books  •  eBooks  •  music  •  video
An attendee passes by a painting of a Colorado pioneer, one of a series of paintings by William Matthews hanging in the convention center.

Librarian Ruth Hitchcock, Albany County Public Library, Laramie, WY, reads Green Cleaning for Dummies at the Wiley booth 2232.

Author Art Spiegelman signs copies of his children’s book Jack and the Box during a special appearance at the Diamond Book Distributors booth 1251.

A light dusting of snow covers the sidewalk as Amy Reisinger, Carus Publishing Company, Peterborough, NH, walks toward the Colorado Convention Center Sunday morning.

Author Craig Johnson signs a copy of his book Another Man’s Moccasins for librarian Chapple Langemack, King County Library System, Bellevue, WA, at Penguin Group (USA) booth 1231.

YEAH, BABY! Librarian Lisa German, Penn State University, University Park, PA, pauses with a likeness of “Austin Powers, International Man of Mystery” at the NAPC booth 1846.