MINUTES

2017 ALA ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Chicago, Illinois

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

VOLUME 52
The customary information session was held in accordance with Policy A.4.2.5.2, which states that at least one joint session of the Membership and Council with the Executive Board shall be held for information only prior to other meetings of Council and Membership. The information session was convened at 3:00pm on Saturday, June 24, 2017, in Room W475e of the McCormick Place Convention Center (MCP).

INTRODUCTIONS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS. ALA President-Elect James (Jim) G. Neal chaired this session on behalf of ALA President Julie B. Todaro, who was presiding at her President’s Program. Neal introduced ALA Parliamentarian Eli Mina; ALA Executive Director and Secretary of the Council Keith Michael Fiels; JoAnne Kempf, Director, Office of ALA Governance; Lois Ann Gregory-Wood, ALA Council Secretariat; Danielle Alderson, Projectionist; and Heather Theriaque, Captionist.

ALA PRESIDENT-ELECT’S REPORT, ALA CD#29.1_61217_INF. Neal said his president-elect year has been focused on orientation, consultation, preparation, planning of initiatives, and developing ideas for his presidential year. In addition, he has visited many individual libraries and ALA chapters across the country.

Neal said there are some clear priorities to focus on inside the organization (e.g., the recruitment, appointment, and orientation of a new ALA executive director and several key directors).

Neal spoke of the significant changes in Annual Conference programming, meeting schedule, and the campus of the 2018 Annual Conference in New Orleans.

Neal then spoke of the aggressive work to improve working relationships between ALA and its chapter partners. He noted a report from the Chapter Relations Committee that outlines several initiatives, which are already being implemented.

During his presidential year, Neal will be convening a meeting to examine how to expand outreach and pipeline development to promote librarianship as a career choice for high school and college students.
Further details on his presidential initiatives are available in his report, ALA CD#29.1.

ALA EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR’S REPORT, ALA CD#23.1_61917_INF.

Keith Michael Fiels, ALA Executive Director and Secretary of Council, noted that his written report—distributed eight (8) times a year—encapsulates a record of Association accomplishments.

Fiels noted the Office for Intellectual Freedom (OIF) will commemorate its 50th anniversary at this conference. All are invited to join in the festivities on Saturday, June 24, 10:30am, Room W180 in McCormick Place West.

Fiels spoke of a series of advocacy boot camps led by OIF Director Jamie LaRue and Office for Library Advocacy Director Marci Merola being conducted in conjunction with ALA chapter annual conferences. The goal of these boot camps is to begin creating the next generation of advocates for intellectual freedom, libraries, and library funding.

In conclusion, Fiels spoke about current and future initiatives to address how to increase ALA membership.

BUDGET ANALYSIS AND REVIEW COMMITTEE (BARC) REPORT, ALA CD#33.1.

At the 1987 Midwinter Meeting, the ALA Council voted that the ALA Budget Analysis and Review Committee (BARC) should report to Council at each ALA Midwinter Meeting and Annual Conference. BARC Chair Ann M. Martin reported on the FY 17 YTD Results (8 months ending 4/30/17), and Resolution on Library Services to Refugees and Displaced Persons.

FY 17 YTD Results (September 16-April 17). In the general fund, the revenues are less than budgeted; the expenses are less than budgeted; and there is a variance. The revenues were lower than budget by $1.5 million, and that’s primarily from publishing services. The 2017 Midwinter revenues were $299,070 less than projected. ALA membership and dues are also below anticipated figures. At the same time, total expenses are under budget, with savings of $543,478. The net revenue is $993,418.

Division revenues were less than budgeted by $370,408, and that was primarily in PLA and CHOICE. Division expenses were less than budget by $702,659, primarily in ACRL’s CHOICE magazine, PLA, and ALSC, with a net revenue of $332,251.

With regards to round tables, their total revenues were $283,701, which is $22,440 more than budget. Expenses were less by $38,195, for a net revenue of $60,635.
At the 2017 Midwinter Meeting, BARC received a referral from the ALA Council for a resolution to create a working group for library services to refugees and displaced persons and was asked to determine if this would have any fiscal impact. After reviewing the proposed scope and charge of the working group, BARC determined that there would be significant fiscal impact in terms of staff support. Results of the review included examining the efforts of Office for Diversity, Literacy, and Outreach Services (ODLOS) including the ODLOS Advisory Committee. To preserve the sustainability and effective organizational structure of ALA, BARC determined it is both most effective and most cost efficient for ALA units to accomplish this work rather than create a new working group.

ALA TREASURER’S REPORT, ALA CD#13.2. Susan H. Hildreth, ALA Treasurer, presented information on the upcoming FY2018 budget, which begins on September 1, 2017, and ends August 31, 2018.

Hildreth talked about the ALA infographic dollar, which was designed to depict ALA’s sources of revenues and show how the funds are spend. More Information about the ALA dollar is available at: http://www.ala.org/aboutala/treasurerspage

Hildreth then provided detailed explanation of ALA’s operating structure and how the different funds within the structure are organized.

Hildreth said the publishing world continues to change and remains challenging. She noted the appointment of Mary Mackay as the new ALA Associate Executive Director, Publishing.

Divisions are using their net assets to develop new revenue opportunities in FY18. ACRL’s CHOICE magazine staff is developing an open education resources evaluation platform to create a new sustainable source of revenue.

ALA continues its investment in IT, focusing on a fully functioning e-store, NextGen online learning site, and ALA Connect enhancements.

Hildreth mentioned the continuing discussion on rather or not ALA should hold Midwinter Meetings. She said it was important for members to understand that publishing and conferences make huge contributions to the ALA general fund to support all of ALA’s mission-related activities. If revenue from publishing and conferences is not achieved, this results in less funding for general fund activities, like the Washington Office or the Office of Intellectual Freedom, etc.
In conclusion, Hildreth explained how ALA net assets and the ALA general fund balance are determined. The combination of these two components create the budgetary ceiling, which Council will be asked to approve during its Council III meeting at this conference.

ALA ENDOWMENT TRUSTEES REPORT, ALA CD#16.1. Rodney Hersberger, Senior Endowment Trustee, begin by saying, “I wish I had a bigger audience to do this, but I want to tell everyone what a pleasure it’s been to know and work with Keith Michael Fiels these last dozen years that I have been involved at ALA at a prominent level.” Keith Michael Fiels will retire this July after serving as ALA Executive Director for 15 years.

Hersberger then spoke of issues impacting the financial market. He noted that while the market seems to be unfazed by the political uncertainty, he said he is “waiting for the big shoe to drop on the market.” The recent election results in the UK cast even more uncertainty over Brexit resolution.

Market value as of 5/31/17 stands at $42 million. That’s up over $12 million since 2007. Claiming to be mildly aggressive, the Endowment Trustees are nonetheless pleased with that rate of investment returns.

Hersberger noted that the Trustees, at the urging of the ALA Council, made their first investment in Environmental, Governance and Social (EGS) Investing (formally called socially responsible investing) by hiring ALA’s first ESG manager in 2004. The initial manager was replaced in 2016, and the investment now represents over 20 percent of the portfolio at $8.7 million. The Trustees are totally committed to EGS investment and are urging ALA’s investment advisor for more EGS managers to consider.

ADJOURNMENT. The Council/Executive Board/Membership Information Session was adjourned at the completion of its agenda.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR SEARCH COMMITTEE (EDSC) REPORT. Courtney L. Young, chair, presented a progress report of the committee’s work since the Midwinter Meeting in Atlanta.

- In February 2017, the EDSC began its work with a conference call.

- In late February, a RFD was sent out to ten executive search firms. Eight proposals were received.

- In mid-April, a small group of the EDSC evaluated the proposals and identified three finalists.

- A small group, along with the EDSC’s staff liaison, conducted phone interviews with the finalists. The firm of Isaacson Miller was selected.

- In early May, Isaacson Miller began scoping interviews with members of the ALA senior management group and other key managers within the Association. They also read the Executive Director’s direct reports and spoke with current ALA Executive Board members and the three Executive Board members who will be seated at the conclusion of this Annual Conference.

- On May 24, the EDSC met face-to-face at ALA Headquarters with the search firm to discuss the executive director position. This was also a part of their scoping process.
• Five questions were asked as a part of the scoping interviews. The feedback gathered during these discussions provided Isaacson Miller with the information needed to draft the advertisement for the position.

The position was posted on the ALA website on June 16 and on the Isaacson Miller website on June 19. It has since been posted on 18 additional job sites and on social media.

Nanette Blandin and Mark St. Hilaire from Isaacson Miller are attending parts of this ALA conference and meeting with interested parties to discuss the position. These individual meetings are confidential. Interested candidates are advised to have their material submitted to Isaacson Miller by July 28, 2017.

The EDSC anticipates its timeline moving forward will include a conference call in late July with the search firm to obtain a progress report on the search to date and solicit feedback on preliminary resumes, a conference call in mid-August with the search firm to present candidates for the EDSC to discuss and select for Skype interviews, confidential Skype interviews in early to mid-September with candidates, and confidential face-to-face interviews in late September with semifinalist candidates away from the ALA Headquarters.

From these interviews, the EDSC will recommend to the ALA Executive Board at least the top two candidates to move to the final set of interviews. Finalist interviews at ALA Headquarters are anticipated to take place in late October, prior to the ALA Executive Board’s fall meeting.

The Board will meet and select the next ALA executive director.

In conclusion, Young thanked the EDSC members for their work to date and their work moving forward, and offered special thanks to its ALA staff liaison, ALA Human Resources Director Dan Hoppe.

International Federations of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA). IFLA President Donna Scheeder provided her final report as her two-year term ends at the IFLA Congress in Wroclaw, Poland, in August 2017. IFLA has been focusing on launching a global vision discussion for the world's libraries in April 2018. A Global Vision report is expected in early 2018.

New ALA Representative to IFLA. Pat Losinski, Chief Executive Officer of the Columbus Metropolitan Library, has been elected to a two-year term on the IFLA Governing Board following the IFLA conference in Wroclaw, Poland.

FREEDOM TO READ FOUNDATION (FTRF), ALA CD#22.1_61517_INF. FTRF President Martin Garnar presented an update of the Foundation’s activities since the 2017 Midwinter Meeting:

- 20th Anniversary of the Internet’s “Legal Birth Certificate.” Monday, June 26, 2017, marks the twentieth anniversary of the Supreme Court decision striking down the Communication Decency Act. (aka the Internet’s “Legal Birth Certificate”). This is one of the FTRF and ALA signal legal achievements.

  Packingham v. North Carolina. This case involves Lester Packingham, a registered sex offender, who is challenging the constitutionality of the North Carolina General Statute § 14-202.5, which prohibits persons who are registered sex offenders from accessing a wide array of websites—including the Washington Post, Facebook, YouTube, and The New York Times—because those websites also permit minors under the age of 18 to have accounts on those sites. The statute does not simply prohibit contact with minors; it prohibits accessing any website that minors might also access with an account.

  FTRF joined over 30 other individuals and civil liberties organizations (including ALA) in filing an amicus curia in support of fundamental First Amendment principles. The Supreme Court agreed. Justice Anthony Kennedy, writing on behalf of a unanimous court, held that “to foreclose access to social media altogether is to prevent the user from engaging in the legitimate exercise of First Amendment rights.”

Garnar then provided an update on other pending FTRF cases.
The Judith F. Krug Memorial Fund. The Krug Banned Books Week grants, which provide financial support and guidance to libraries, schools, and community organizations planning Banned Books Week celebrations, will be awarded to seven grantees in September 2017.

Under the auspices of the Krug Fund, four (4) partial scholarships will be awarded to four students to enroll in an Intellectual Freedom and Censorship class at the University of Illinois School of Information Sciences.

2017 Roll of Honor Award Recipients. The 2017 recipients include Joan Bertin, former executive director, National Coalition Agenda Censorship (NCAC); Robert (Bob) Holley, recently retired professor of Library Science at Wayne State University; and Martha Speer, longtime intellectual freedom fighter, working in the Michigan Association for Media in Education.

Gordon Conable Conference Scholarship. Kate Davis is the 2017 recipient of the Conable Conference Scholarship. Davis recently received her MLIS from the University of Denver.

ALA CENTER FOR THE FUTURE OF LIBRARIES ADVISORY COMMITTEE REPORT_ALA CD#39_62427_INF. Susan Kent, chair, noted the Center was established in 2013. Miguel Figueroa serves as its director, and the Center was initially supported by a grant from IMLS. The Center has three goals: identifying emerging trends relevant to libraries; promoting the future and innovation techniques to help librarians and library professionals shape their future; and to build connection with experts and innovative thinkers.

The 19-member advisory committee, established in 2015, has supported the development and selection of content for the Symposium on the Future of Libraries and sought the creation and selection of the first Future of Libraries Fellow. The long-term goal of the Advisory Committee is to help the Center evolve to meet the needs of the ALA membership and the library profession at large.

At the request of Executive Director Keith Michael Fiels, the Center initiated a weekly news scanning update entitled Read for Later, a “weekly wrap-up consists of news and articles to help libraries think about the future of our collection, spaces, services, partners, and roles in the community.” As of June 20, 2017, the e-newsletter has over 3,000 subscribers.

After providing other points of interest on the Center’s activities, Kent ended by thanking ALA Executive Director Keith Michael Fiels and the Executive Board for their continuing support of the fellowship program into 2018. Kent also expressed special thanks to Director Miguel Figueroa.

ALA CLOSING SESSION FEATURING HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON. Paul Graller, ALA Conference Manager, provided special instructions on how to enter and exit the convention center’s location where Hillary Rodham Clinton would be speaking following the Council III meeting. ALA Council Secretariat Lois Ann Gregory-Wood will escort Council members to their designated seating area at the session.

ALA CONFERENCE ACCESSIBILITY TASK FORCE, ALA CD#37.1_62117_INF. ALA Councilors Christopher J. Corrigan and Mike Marlin, co-chairs, presented the task force’s final report containing 81 recommendations for improving accessibility at ALA conferences, ALA units, including symposia and institutes, and virtual meetings. The recommendations are divided into three overarching categories subdivided by theme: (1) before conferences; (2) during conferences; and (3) after conferences. For each recommendation, an attempt is made to identify which ALA unit or units is best suited to tackle a specific recommendation or set of recommendations. The task force tried to rank the urgency of each recommendation, though it understands there are interceding variables such as cost, workload, and staffing that may alter the suggested timelines and priority levels.

Corrigan pointed out the ALA Conference Services has been delegated as the recipient of a large majority of these recommendations and has been working with the task force throughout this process. Other stakeholder groups include the ASCLA Board and Accessibility Assembly, the ODLOS Office, and various committees.

Corrigan noted a correction needs to be made to the numbering order of the recommendations 15.1 and 15.2 in ALA CD#37.1. They were listed in reversed order in the report.

Mike Marlin, task force co-chair, spoke of the data garnered from a 30-question Survey Gizmo online questionnaire, disseminated from May 22 to June 3, 2017. He said an in-depth study and analysis of the survey results will occur after this conference. The June 2017 Survey Gizmo accessibility survey of membership, exhibit vendors, and lapsed ALA members is intended to develop indicators focused on areas or aspects that can improve the accessibility of ALA’s in-person conferences and virtual meetings.
Despite the survey’s low return, the results show that anywhere from 17 to 25 percent of conference attendees identify as a person with a disability. This translates to approximately 1700 Midwinter attendees or 3400 plus at an Annual Conference (averaging the two meetings at 10,000 and 20,000 attendees respectively).

To improve future tracking efforts, the task force, recommends that a database be created to generate analysis reports to discuss how to continue to make accessibility improvements.

Corrigan and Marlin thanked their task force members and the many others who worked on this project.

ADJOURNMENT. The ALA Council II was adjourned upon the completion of the agenda.

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION (COL) REPORT, ALA CD#20.1_62717_INF. Ann Dutton Ewbank, chair, highlighted some of the COL achievements through the past six months:

Library Funding Campaign. The ALA Office of Government Relations, in consultation with COL, has led a campaign to defend federal library funding in the face of a proposal by President Donald Trump to eliminate the IMLS and essentially all library funding. Ewbank said it was a stellar example of how the organization and its leadership can come together to advocate for libraries. This advocacy effort succeeded in securing the support of record numbers of members of the House of Representatives and the Senate in support of fully funding the Library Services and Technology Act and the innovative approaches to literacy program in FY 2018.

Special thanks were given to the staff of the ALA Office of Government Relations for organizing the effort and providing the tools that enabled library advocates to operate effectively.

National Library Legislative Day. The event was held May 1-2, 2017, in Washington, DC, drawing a capacity crowd of over 500 attendees, for a day of briefings and a second day of meetings on Capitol Hill. In addition, further efforts saw more than 1,000 people registered for Virtual Library Legislative Day, which featured real-time streamed briefings on ALA issues and guides to ALA advocacy materials and ALA's Legislative Action Center.

The Corporate Committee for Library Investment. A new advocacy group (to save federal library funding) comprised of library vendors, technology companies, and three national trade associations, was co-conceived, organized, and launched by the ALA Office of Government Relations (OGR) and the Gale/Cengage Company. It held its first organizational meeting in Chicago on Monday, June 28.

Ewbank also said the ALA Washington Office and the COL continues to monitor and work toward ensuring that ALA’s core values are represented and affirmed in federal legislation and policy; along with continuing to actively work on vital issues such as net neutrality, privacy, and surveillance law reform; access to government information; and balance in copyright.

In her closing remarks, Ewbank thanked COL members and the Office of Government Relations and Washington Office staff for their tireless and relentless work on behalf of all libraries and the communities they serve. Her two-year term as COL chair will end at the close of this conference.
