Issues Impacting the Market

- First half results following the same pattern as each of the last three years – strong 1st quarter following by market stumble i.e. “Spring Swoon”
- Federal Reserve signals the possible end to bond purchases, which has provided sustained liquidity to the economy
- In the 1st quarter the market grew at an annualized pace of 2.5%* after just 0.4% in 4th quarter of 2012
- Cutbacks in Federal spending expected to mute 1st quarter market growth for remainder of the year
- Public sector spending declined at a rate of 4.1%, continuing a three year retrenchment since the federal stimulus program started winding down
