

Federal Funding for Libraries

Libraries serve an important role in your communities back home. Every day, libraries provide no-fee access to computers and Wi-Fi, serve small businesses, help people find jobs, support literacy development for children, and help veterans transition to civilian life.

The Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) is the only source of dedicated federal funding for the more than 120,000 school, public, academic, government, and special libraries across the nation. LSTA Grants to States ensure that every state has access to needed resources and power to determine how to use them. LSTA funds support a range of services in your community:

- LSTA prepares students for today's job market by providing coding and STEM activities;
- LSTA funds business development assistance programs for entrepreneurs, provided by skilled business and technology outreach librarians;
- 95% of libraries offer online homework assistance;
- 98% of public libraries provide no-fee Wi-Fi; and
- 98% of libraries provide technology training.

With the $232 million provided in its reauthorization, LSTA funding will allow more than 120,000 school, public, academic, government, and other libraries to advance employment, entrepreneurship, education, empowerment, and engagement in communities across America.

Please fully fund libraries in FY2020 & sign the LSTA appropriations letter.

To cut funding for libraries means to undercut opportunities libraries provide for all Americans. We urge Congress to continue to make full funding for our nation's libraries a priority for FY2020.

Overwhelming support for the Museum and Library Services Act of 2018 is Congress's vote of confidence in America's libraries. The $232 million authorization level for LSTA is a modest, but critical investment in your libraries and the opportunities they provide your constituents.

www.ala.org / @ALALibrary

ALA American Library
Association

The American Library Association (ALA) is the foremost national organization providing resources to inspire library and information professionals to transform their communities through essential programs and services. For more than 140 years, the ALA has been the trusted voice for academic, public, school, government and special libraries, advocating for the profession and the library's role in enhancing learning and ensuring access to information for all.