FOREWORD: Louise Seaman Bechtel and the Baldwin Library

Who was Louise Seaman Bechtel?

Editor, author, lecturer on children's literature, Louise Seaman Bechtel served as editor and head of the juvenile book department of Macmillan Publishing Company in New York City. A 1915 graduate of Vassar College, Bechtel began work for Macmillan in 1919. After leaving Macmillan in 1934, Bechtel worked as a freelance writer and lecturer. She was the editor of the children's section of the New York Herald Tribune Book Review from 1948 to 1956 and was an associate editor of The Horn Book Magazine, a journal on literature for children, from 1939 to 1957. She married Edwin DeTurch Bechtel in 1929. In 1980, Ms. Bechtel donated portions of her papers, an extensive book collection and memorabilia to Vassar College and the University of Florida. Born in 1894, Bechtel died in 1985.

What is the Baldwin Library?

The Baldwin Library of Historical Children's Literature, housed in the Department of Special Collections at the University of Florida, contains approximately 103,000 volumes published in Great Britain and America from the mid 1600's to the current year. Its holdings of more than 800 titles published in North America before 1820 is the second largest such collection in the United States.

This vast assemblage presents many possible subjects for the researcher to explore, including education and upbringing, civic values, family and gender roles, and racial, religious, and moral attitudes. These areas complement the obvious resources for the study of literacy style, format, and the arts of illustration and book designs.

The collection includes alphabet and picture books, moral tales, adolescent fiction, adventure stories, poetry books, paper engineered books (pop-ups,) natural histories, geographies, biographies, and more than 6,000 19th century books and tracts published for children by religious organizations such as the American Sunday School Union.

Although the Baldwin Library contains many well-known titles, it emphasizes the entire spectrum of books known to have been read by children. Consequently, researchers will have access to the classics of children's literature as well as many unique or extremely rare titles that were deemed "unworthy" to be held in other repositories.

The broad scopes of time, topic, and author allow for both comprehensive and in-depth reviews and study. Cultural, social, and literary trends can be studied in a general nature beginning from the time books for children were introduced, or through deeper exploration of a more specific time period.

The collection also offers a unique opportunity for comparative studies. There are many titles with parallel British and American editions in the library that facilitate study of the differences between the two cultures. There are also many texts represented by numerous editions that provide ample resources for constructing the evolution of text through several years or decades.

For example, over 300 British and American editions of Robinson Crusoe published from 1719 through the mid 1980s are among the holdings.

PART II: COMMITTEE WORK

Welcome

Serving on the Bechtel Fellowship Committee is a rare professional experience. When all committee members have been appointed is complete, it is recommended that the Chair send a letter of welcome to the membership. The letter might include an outline of the year's work.

Calendar

It is the responsibility of the Chair to establish and distribute a calendar of the year's work as soon as possible. It is the responsibility of committee members to meet all deadlines to assure that the selection process is orderly and timely.

Committee Participation

Committee members are expected to participate in discussions, whether e-mail, fax, or in person, and engage in the business of the committee, including but not limited to encouraging colleagues to apply for the Fellowship, the selecting the Fellow(s), reviewing the Committee's functions, charges and procedures and participating in ALSC's Strategic Planning process as it relates to this committee.

Committee members are expected to attend all of the meetings at both Midwinter Meetings during the two years of service on the committee.

ALSC is grateful for the full participation of committee members. In recognition of their commitment, the Chair sends letters of appreciation to committee members' supervisors/employers (please see APPENDIX B, Supervisor Information Form, and APPENDIX C, Sample Letter to Supervisor)

Note ALA Policy 4.4 and 4.5: "No member shall serve concurrently in more than three separate positions, and committee members are expected to attend all meetings (Midwinter and/or Annual conference)."

General guidelines for effective committee discussion include the following:

- Come prepared to meetings, having read the Manual, the applications, etc.

- Speak briefly and to the point; that is, speak only to the terms, criteria, and definitions of the Fellowship
- Be receptive to others' ideas and comments

Communication

Electronic communication facilitates the distribution of information from the Chair to committee members, and the regular discussion of procedural issues. The Committee adheres to the “Guidelines for Electronic Communication for ALSC Committees,” as adopted by the ALSC Board and as posted on the ALSC Web site at <http://www.ala.org/ala/alsc/boardcomm/guidelineselec/guidelineselectronic.htm> and on page nine of this manual.

Committee members are not free to communicate with each other about committee work without going through the Chair. All e-mail from committee members is directed to the Chair unless the Chair invites open discussion on a matter of concern. At times, the Chair may invite open discussion on a matter of concern. The Chair facilitates such open discussion and will establish ground rules for electronic communication that are consistent with the policy referenced above.

As a practical matter, e-mail is not used for substantive discussion. It is not a substitute for face-to-face discussion of applicants.

Confidentiality

There is a need to maintain confidentiality regarding the committee discussions, oral or written, e-mail or fax. For e-mail, include the word “confidential” on the subject line or as part of the transmission options. For FAX communication, include the word “confidential” on a cover sheet. Do not forward e-mail to anyone outside of the committee except those in ALSC responsible for governance: the Executive Director, the President, and/or the Priority Group Consultant. Our reason is to ensure the privacy rights of committee members and candidates under discussion.

Please remember, then, that the following items are not for public discussion at any time—prior to, during, or following the selection of the award:

- Reasons given by individual committee members for supporting or removing candidates from consideration.
- Specific candidates under consideration.
- Details of the votes, if the committee votes on the candidates.

Suggested Voting Procedures
