

It's never too soon... to start thinking about a career as a librarian.

What do librarians do?

Librarians help people find information. They organize information. They choose and buy materials like books and music. Some read stories to children. Others work with computers and design websites. They do a lot of different things.

Where do librarians work?

- Radio & TV Stations
- Hospitals
- Schools
- Public Libraries
- Corporations
- Law Offices
- Museums
- Congress
- FBI/CIA
- Film Libraries

What makes a good librarian?

- Like to help people
- Like to read
- Like to work with computers
- Good at talking and listening to people

What can you do now to get ready?

- Read a lot
- Take computer classes
- Get good grades
- Plan to go to college

Want more information?

Visit our website at www.LibraryCareers.org/ or call 800/545-2433 ext. 4280.

Make a living making a difference!

American Library Association Office for Human Resource Development & Recruitment

