History, Focus, and Planning

History
In June, 1996, at the ALA Annual Conference, the Support Staff Interests Round Table [SSIRT], led by Dorothy Morgan, SSIRT President, presented a strategic planning process to its Steering Committee. The Steering Committee approved this process and appointed a Strategic Planning Committee. This Committee disseminated a SSIRT Support Staff Issues Survey in 1997 which resulted in 2,000 responses from support staff all over the United States and Canada. The survey results, which were presented to the SSIRT Steering Committee, identified three top issues among library support staff. Those issues included:

1. Career ladders [few opportunities for advancement].
2. Compensation not appropriate to level of education, experience, and responsibilities.
3. Access to continuing education and training opportunities.

As a result of its background work, SSIRT presented a proposal to the ALA Executive Board at the ALA Midwinter meeting in 2001. This proposal would establish a preliminary planning group to develop a recommendation, including budgeting, for a Congress-type event addressing issues concerning non-MLS workers. The preliminary planning group included Paulette Feld [SSIRT], Camila Alire [ALA Executive Board], Mary Ghikas [ALA staff], Lorelle Swader [ALA staff], and Danielle Alderson [ALA staff].

Based on the preliminary planning group’s work, the ALA Executive Board, at its Spring Board meeting in April, 2001, approved the group’s recommendation to support and fund a third Congress on Professional Education with a focus on issues concerning support staff in libraries [COPE 3].

A COPE 3 Steering Committee was appointed by the ALA Executive Board with representatives from SSIRT, COLT, ALA Executive Board, HRDR Advisory Committee, 2 ALA Divisions, the ALA Committee on Diversity, and the Library/Media Technician Training Committee from ACRL’s Community and Junior College Libraries Section.

Julie Huiskamp, who chaired the Career Pathways Taskforce from COPE 1, was asked to chair the COPE 3 Steering Committee. Mary Ghikas, Lorelle Swader, and Danielle Alderson were named ALA staff liaisons to the Steering Committee.

The Committee has served at the pleasure of the Board and, with the Congress complete and this report submitted to the Board, has completed its charge.

Focus and Terminology for the Congress
There are many volatile issues surrounding library support staff. Two that the Steering Committee faced immediately were definition and terminology. It was decided, at the first meeting of the Steering Committee, that the exclusion noted by the preliminary planning group that recommended COPE 3 to the ALA Executive Board would be honored in defining library support staff for this Congress. In their April 17, 2001 memo to the Executive Board, the group stated:

While it is recognized that library support staff are defined as those involved in library operations at all levels, for purposes of this particular Congress, the planning group felt that emphasis should not be on non-MLS “specialists” within the library settings. (i.e., human resource managers, public relations specialists, information technology specialist, graphic artists, media relations specialist, etc.) The planning group felt that this group of individuals employed in libraries, have very different issues than library support staff or paraprofessionals. Many “specialists” identify more strongly with their principal areas of expertise rather than the broader field of library work.

In accepting this statement, the Steering Committee declared the focus for COPE 3 to be on those library workers who work in positions in the library that do not include specialists or those in positions defined as requiring the MLS.

The term used to describe these library workers, which was used by the Steering Committee in naming the Congress and in all official references from COPE 3, is library support staff. Delegates were informed of this choice at the opening of the Congress, but were encouraged to use terminology with which they were comfortable during the Congress.

Planning for COPE 3
The Steering Committee held planning meetings on the following dates:

- ALA Midwinter Conference, January 2002, New Orleans, LA
- ALA Annual Conference, June 2002, Atlanta, GA
- Site Visit/Retreat Meeting, September 2002, College of Du Page, Glen Ellyn, IL

Work was also conducted electronically and by phone. Among their actions in planning the Congress over the course of eighteen months were:

1) refining the title of COPE 3 to be The 3rd Congress on Professional Education: Focus on Library Support Staff;
2) setting the COPE 3 date and place - May 16-17, 2003 at College of Du Page in Glen Ellyn, Illinois;
3) determining the delegate selection process and designing Request for Participation Form; and
4) setting the expectations and responsibilities for delegates to bring to the Congress which included:
   - an ability to define, communicate, and articulate issues from their constituency regarding library support staff.
   - the willingness to be open to the ideas of others.
   - the willingness to be open to innovative ways of doing things.
• an ability to share creative, action oriented solutions.
• an ability to build consensus.
• a passion for the issues of concern to library support staff.
• an ability to keep the big picture in focus.
• a thoroughness of preparation, including the reading of all background materials and an understanding of the issues important to the constituent group represented.
• a commitment of their time and energy for participation in the full Congress.
• a commitment to action beyond the Congress.

The Committee adopted a sub-committee structure to facilitate planning and organization for COPE 3. The sub-committees and their membership included:

Delegate Selection: Martha Parsons, Alex Bloss

Logistics: Linda Slusar, Jan Hayes, Danielle Alderson

Process/Content/Speakers/Facilitators: Jan Hayes, Margaret Barron, Karen Letarte, Miriam Pollack

Social: Linda Slusar, Anne Hofmann, Julie Huiskamp

Vendor Support and Scholarships: Lorelle Swader, Julie Huiskamp, Camila Alire

Volunteers: Miriam Pollack

Website: Lorelle Swader, Martha Parsons, Julie Huiskamp

Organizational Development Consultant Maureen Sullivan was hired to facilitate COPE 3 and Kathleen Weibel, Director of Staff Development for the Chicago Public Library, was invited to present a keynote address for the Congress.

The Steering Committee, at the recommendation of Jan Hayes, chose to use Appreciative Inquiry in small group work during the Congress. To simplify, Appreciative Inquiry emphasizes imagining the possibilities rather than focusing on the problems. The Process/Content/Speakers/Facilitators subcommittee worked with Maureen Sullivan to develop an agenda that would allow delegates to the Congress to utilize Appreciative Inquiry in their table conversations. Links to websites with information about Appreciative Inquiry can be found on the COPE 3 website.

Delegate Selection
The Steering Committee used the following process to issue invitations to and encourage nominations from potential delegates to COPE 3.

From State and Regional Library Support Staff Associations
Letters were sent to those organizations listed in the LSSIRT Directory of State and Regional Library Support Staff Associations with a request that the organization select and support a delegate for the Congress. These letters were sent on September 25, 2002 with delegate confirmation from the Association requested by December 1, 2002.

For Delegates by Nomination
A press release was written and sent to Library Mosaics, Library Journal, Hotline, American Libraries, LIBSUP-L, and ALA Unit Managers for distribution to all appropriate lists. Nominations were due on January 10, 2003.

Requisite Delegates
These delegates included representatives from:
- ALA leadership and staff
- Affiliate organizations
- Library administrators, human resources managers, and trainers
- Library press and publishers

Letters were mailed to these groups and individuals on October 1, 2002 with a response requested by December 1, 2002.

Supporters of Support Staff
Delegates in this category were selected by the Steering Committee on the basis of past work with and strong interest in library support staff issues. Letters were mailed to these invitees on November 1, 2002. Responses were requested by December 15, 2002.

A total of 154 delegates (approximately half were library support staff), volunteers, steering committee members, and speakers attended the Congress. Two lists of delegates are appended to this report (Appendix 1 and Appendix 2). Appendix 1 is an alpha list, organized by name. Appendix 2 includes only those delegates representing a constituent group and is organized by affiliation.

Financial Support Received
COPE 3 was chiefly funded by the American Library Association. Delegates paid their own transportation and lodging costs, or had them funded by a sponsoring association or institution. The Association funded all Congress programming and materials, and meals at the Congress.

Additional financial support was received from:
- Washington Association of Library Employees (WALE)—conference bags
- The Library at the College of Du Page—conference bags, audiovisual equipment, complimentary room use, volunteer staff support,
- Library Support Staff Interests Roundtable (LSSIRT)—transportation from hotel to College of Du Page, two $100 scholarships to fund support staff delegates with little or no financial support
- Four Anonymous Donors—four $100 scholarships to fund support staff delegates with little or no financial support

Apples and Oranges: Food for Thought
Kathleen Weibel, Director of Staff Development at the Chicago Public Library, opened the Congress with a keynote that provided a history and background of the issues with which library support staff have been challenged since libraries began in the United States. She suggested several models for meeting the challenges; and she issued an impassioned and well-received call to work together, as apples and oranges, to make libraries workplaces that are equitable and always mindful of the mission of the institution.

Following the Congress, Kathleen provided the Steering Committee with her 10 Easy Tips: Short-Term Tools to Keep the Spirit of COPE 3 Alive.

Potential Visibility Push
1. Press release on Congress results, plus everyone go back and write a brief piece on issues
2. Paraprofessional page in American Libraries

Horse to Ride:
3. Get on the ARL agenda
4. Talk to IMLS
5. ALA Chapter Relations: get on agenda and talk about paraprofessionalism in Chapters
6. Ask for time at each ALA Division Board meeting
7. Paraprofessionalism leadership conference—set your own agenda
8. Disseminate ALA Pay Equity Taskforce Toolkit
9. Develop research agenda and get it to library schools
10. Target key ALA committees and get on them

Appreciative Inquiry and the Work of COPE 3
Following Kathleen Weibel’s keynote and lunch, Maureen Sullivan provided a brief introduction that included information on her background as a facilitator, her experiences with ALA’s previous two COPE events, and a brief explanation of the Appreciative Inquiry process. She then began the first of four conversations designed to focus delegates on the issues and outcomes of COPE 3. The activities that comprised each step of the process—Discovery, Dream, Design, Destiny were completed at 18 round, 8-person tables. Between the conversations, delegates had the opportunity to meet in the center of the room as a community to reflect on the conversation, and to view the flip chart work of the other groups.

What follows is a description of each of the conversations and the activities included in each.
Small Group Discussion I: Discovery
The eighteen small discussion groups convened. Before beginning their discussion at this first stage, Maureen Sullivan, the Congress facilitator, asked each individual to reflect silently on the question:

What gives meaning and purpose to the work you do?

She then asked each person to pair up with another person in the small group for a brief conversation about their reflections on the question.

Small groups met for the first activity. Maureen Sullivan asked each group to identify the best of what is in the work experience of library support staff, i.e., current strengths, successes, hopes for the future, etc.

Sullivan suggested that the groups spend some time (about ten minutes) in general discussion before starting to record ideas. Each group recorded its ideas on a flipchart for presentation to the larger community and then each group gave a brief report of the highlights from the discussion.

Small Group Discussion II: Dream
Each group developed its vision of a preferred future for support staff through an exercise in which they were to come up with a headline and key points for a feature story in American Libraries or Library Journal. This feature story would appear in May 2008 to report on the transformation of the support staff work experience. Each group posted the results of its work on flipchart pages for others to view, then all delegates walked around the room to view the results of all of the groups’ work.

Saturday, May 17

Recap of the Previous Day
As a community, delegates reflected on the results of the visioning exercise to identify the compelling elements for the vision of a preferred future for support staff in libraries. These comments were recorded on a flipchart and posted for review during the remainder of the Congress.

Small Group Discussions III: Design
In this stage, discussion focused on the identification of a small number of “provocative propositions” to describe what the practice should be. These were derived from the work done to create the visions, and the key issues.

Sullivan encouraged the delegates to push their thinking to identify novel and compelling recommendations. She also suggested that they remember Kathleen Weibel’s words from her keynote: decide which “horses to ride.”

During a break, delegates reviewed the work of other groups.
Small Group Discussions IV: Destiny
Groups reconvened to identify specific actions. Each delegate identified his or her own ideas for action and wrote each idea on a Post-It Note. Groups then worked together to organize the Post-It Notes. Delegates reviewed the proposed action steps and identified those they believed to be both doable and sustainable (criteria suggested by Kathleen Weibel in her keynote address). At this point in the process, groups had assumed ownership of their work and proceeded to develop the process that worked best for their group. As a result, there were several variations in the process used to organize the final set of action steps. Some groups used the technique of multi-voting to identify possible priorities for action. Delegates reviewed the work of other groups during lunch.

Small groups reconvened briefly for more time. Sullivan asked each delegate to reflect on the experience and to identify one thing each would do to advance the work of the Congress after adjournment. Upon completion of this assignment, delegates were then invited to reconvene in plenary session. Sullivan invited those delegates who wished to do so to share their plans. About twenty delegates responded.

Next Steps
Steering Committee Chair, Julie Huiskamp, then discussed with the delegates the next steps that would be taken by the Committee. They included:

♦ Writing of the Summary Report and submitting it to the ALA Executive Board electronically prior to ALA Annual in Toronto
♦ Presenting the report to the ALA Executive Board in Toronto ♦ Development of an Implementation Report for COPE 3 by ALA staff liaisons
♦ Implementation of COPE 3 Outcomes and Objectives

The Congress adjourned at 2:45 p.m.
Recommendations

Introduction
As was stated earlier in this report, the survey results from LSSIRT’s 1997 survey of library support staff indicated that the top three issues of concern at that time were:

1. Career ladders [few opportunities for advancement].
2. Compensation not appropriate to level of education, experience, and responsibilities.
3. Access to continuing education and training opportunities.

These issues were very evident in the conversations at COPE 3 and strong, concrete ideas for meeting challenges in these areas were provided. The “Destiny” conversation at COPE 3 asked participants to identify three to five specific ideas for action. The topics and the number of action ideas generated at the COPE 3 tables under each topic were:

- ALA and Library Support Staff—74 items
- Certification of Library Support Staff—45 items
- ALA Membership/Initiatives—40 items
- Respect for Library Support Staff—32 items
- Career Paths—27 items
- Continuing Education and Training—25 items
- Compensation—24 items
- Accreditation of Library Support Staff Education Programs—21 items
- Education/Scholarships—17 items
- Marketing and PR—16 items
- Recruitment—14 items
- Classification/Job Descriptions—13 items
- Inclusion/Involvement—11 items
- Competencies—10 items
- COPE 3—10 items
- Library Publications—8 items
- Inclusive Language—8 items
- Library Support Staff and Other Associations/Organizations—7 items
- ALA Salary Survey—5 items
- LSSIRT—4 items
- Mediation Models—3 items
- Job Bank—3 items
- National Initiative to Create National Library Workers’ Union —1 item

Note: A listing of all of the action projects suggested for each topic can be found in Appendix 3.
The three issues from the 1997 (L)SSIRT survey appeared together, very close to the top of the list, but the top three topics at the top of the list—ALAA and Library Support Staff, Certification of Library Support Staff, and ALA Membership Initiatives—all focus primarily on the American Library Association and its relationship to and leadership in issues of concern to library support staff.

Action ideas in almost all of the topic areas include ALA in the planning, funding, organization, and/or implementation of the ideas. While this may have been influenced by the fact that ALA sponsored and staged COPE 3, it is the belief of the Steering Committee that members of the library support staff community, and others involved in working with library support staff issues, look to ALA to take a leadership role in a broad number of areas in the effort to address the challenges facing library support staff and libraries and their parent institutions in regard to support staff issues. While ALA has made significant contributions, there are many who believe that changes must be made if ALA is to seriously address these issues.

ALA, while technically the American LIBRARY Association, is viewed by many as the American LIBRARIANS’ Association. Membership in ALA by library support staff in numbers that can make a difference on committees and in the leadership of the Association is not currently a reality.

It will be imperative that ALA as an Association and individual ALA members, regardless of their status, embrace the importance of addressing issues of concern to library support staff if any of the recommendations of this Steering Committee are going to be accomplished. Certainly, other groups and associations, as well as libraries and their parent institutions have a shared responsibility in implementing action, but ALA and ALA/APA must accept responsibility and take action or the conversations will continue, but serious change will not be effected.

Should recommendation 1.4.1 be successful and LSSIRT becomes an ALA division, there will be at least a shared staff position at ALA dedicated to support staff interests, and ALA’s ability to respond strategically will be improved.

What follows are recommendations from the COPE 3 Steering Committee to the ALA Executive Board based on the work of the COPE 3 delegates. It is understood by the Steering Committee that ALA will not be financially or organizationally able to undertake all of these recommendations, but the Steering Committee respectfully asks the Association to take a leadership role in working with library support staff issues and challenges and in recommending to other associations and to libraries and their parent institutions in the United States the concrete ways in which these issues and challenges can be addressed.

It should be understood that these recommendations are selective and intentionally focused chiefly on what is “do-able” in the short term, and sustainable. Additionally, they are considered by the Steering Committee to be “first steps” based on the action items that were considered to be most urgent by the delegates at COPE 3. Appendix 3 has been included to allow for future lists of action items to be developed. The transcript from the flip charts for all 18 tables and all four conversations for each are posted on the COPE 3 website and are available at ALA in order to facilitate the development of post-COPE 3 agendas by other associations, groups, and institutions and by future groups within ALA.

1.0 Association Life

These recommendations were taken from the topic areas of: ALA and Library Support Staff, ALA Memberships/Initiatives, Library Support Staff and Other Associations/Organizations, LSSIRT, and COPE 3.

1.1 ALA and Library Support Staff

1.1.1 Conduct a needs assessment that will allow ALA to survey library support staff regarding their interest in the Association and the ways in which the Association can meet their needs.

1.1.2 Create, foster, and preserve an environment within ALA for support staff that is a model for state and local library associations.

1.1.3 Foster ways to ensure the appointment of support staff members to ALA and division committees, task forces, and work groups by their presidents.

1.1.4 Identify a process that allows research agendas on support staff issues to be forwarded within the Association and to outside groups, including MLS and doctoral programs, as appropriate.

1.1.5 Create an ALA award for the library with the most innovative program in the area of support staff career development.

1.1.6 Foster an awareness within ALA of the need for programming which is geared toward support staff issues (compensation, training, career ladders, etc.) and interests.

1.2 ALA Memberships/Initiatives

1.2.1 ALA should undertake an economic study of the feasibility of a dues structure that would allow substantial support staff participation in ALA.

1.2.2 Following the completion of this study, ALA should market membership options, including joint membership opportunities, widely to library support staff.

1.3 Library Support Staff and Other Associations/Organizations

1.3.1 ALA and LSSIRT should undertake a joint effort to increase awareness of library support staff issues within regional, state, and local associations and, at the same time, market the benefits of association membership to library support staff workers.

1.4 Library Support Staff Interests Roundtable (LSSIRT)

1.4.1 LSSIRT should create a timeline and a tactical plan for movement from an ALA roundtable to an ALA division.
1.4.2 LSSIRT should appoint a taskforce to monitor the progress on implementation of the recommendations from COPE 3 and to create an LSSIRT action agenda based on the work of the COPE 3 delegates.

1.5 COPE 3
1.5.1 ALA should ensure the wide-spread publication of COPE 3 recommendations and outcomes and consider subsequent COPE events focused on library support staff issues.

2.0 Workplace
These recommendations were taken from the topic areas of: Recruitment, Career Paths, Classification/Job Descriptions, Compensation, and ALA Salary Survey.

2.1 Recruitment
2.1.1 ALA’s career recruitment efforts should include all library workers and not be aimed only at MLS librarians.
2.1.2 An ALA or LSSIRT website recruitment effort should be aimed at raising awareness of employment opportunities at all levels in libraries and include “The Face of American’s Libraries” a catalog pictorial of library workers in all types of libraries.

2.2 Career Paths
2.2.1 ALA should appoint a taskforce to establish a career ladder for support staff that is supplemental to ALA’s Library and Information Studies Education and Human Resource Utilization policy statement. This support staff career ladder (or lattice) should consider:
   - standardized job titles
   - staff training and development standards
   - certification levels
   - competencies
   - compensation
2.2.2 ALA and its divisions should consider stronger programming in human resources development for libraries with an emphasis on new models for classification, job description, pay for responsibility and performance, and other pertinent areas.

2.3 Classification/Job Descriptions
2.3.1 The support staff career ladder taskforce (2.1.1) should include job descriptions and classifications in its work and consider developing of mission-based job descriptions for library support staff and librarians for use as models.
2.4 Compensation

2.4.1 The support staff career ladder taskforce (2.1.1) should include formulas for recommended pay scales for library support staff in its work.

2.4.2 ALA should commit to including support staff salaries in its annual Salary Survey by 2004.

3.0 Credentialing

These recommendations were taken from the topic areas of: Certification, Competencies, and Accreditation of Library Support Staff Education Programs.

3.1 Certification

3.1.1 ALA, in cooperation with LSSIRT and other appropriate stakeholders, should study the feasibility of developing a voluntary national support staff certification program administered by ALA/APA. Successful state models should be studied and access, practicality, and quality should be included in the considerations.

3.2 Accreditation of Library Support Staff Education Programs

3.2.1 ALA should move forward with acceptance of the 1998 revision of Criteria to Prepare Library Technical Assistants and establish a process that will allow the evaluation and revision of these criteria at regular intervals.

3.2.2 If a support staff certification program is established through ALA/APA, ALA should study the feasibility of establishing a process for the approval or endorsement of continuing education programs for library support staff.

3.3 Competencies

3.3.1 The support staff career ladder taskforce (2.1.1) should include in its work the establishment of competencies for library support staff. These competencies should relate to program accreditation, library support staff certification, and approval of library support staff development activities.

4.0 Education and Continuing Professional Development

These recommendations were taken from the topic area of: Education and Scholarships and Continuing Education and Training.

4.1 Education and Scholarships

4.1.1 Formal education programs at all levels (LTA/AA, BA/BS, MLS) should be accessible and able to meet the needs of full-time library workers.
4.1.2 ALA, LSSIRT, and other appropriate groups should promote and support more regional and local training opportunities for library support staff. These opportunities should focus on specific work areas such as technical seminars for on-line products, readers’ assistance, and circulation.

4.1.3 Scholarships, fellowships, and other opportunities should be established for library workers who are continuing their formal education and attending continuing professional development activities.

4.1.4 ALA should create and maintain a web-based database of educational programs for library workers inclusive of program offerings, distance options, and program costs.

4.2 Continuing Education and Training

4.2.1 ALA should create and maintain a web-based continuing education clearinghouse.

4.2.2 ALA should develop guidelines for libraries and parent institutions that include recommended budget expenditures for staff development, funding sources, and ideas for cooperative staff development offerings.

4.2.3 Networks and consortia for continuing professional development for library workers should be established and funding support should be sought from appropriate sources.

5.0 Valuing People

These recommendations were taken from the topic areas of: Respect, Inclusion/Involvement, and Inclusive Language.

5.1 Respect

5.1.1 ALA and LSSIRT should take a leadership role in developing resources, including best practices, that exemplify ways in which library workers have established mutually respectful work environments.

5.1.2 ALA and LSSIRT should develop a statement on respect for all library workers.

5.2 Inclusion/Involvement

5.2.1 Open dialog between all library workers should be modeled in ALA.

5.2.2 Continued programming and publicity to promote inclusiveness of all library workers should be encouraged.

5.3 Inclusive Language

5.3.1 ALA should develop a policy to ensure that all library workers are included in ALA initiatives, communications, and programs. This policy should be viewed as a model for all libraries and their parent institutions.
6.0 Marketing and Public Relations

These recommendations were taken from the topic areas of Marketing and Public Relations and Library Publications.

6.1 Marketing and Public Relations

6.1.1 ALA’s public relations and marketing campaigns should be designed to promote inclusiveness within the Association.

6.1.2 A national marketing campaign aimed at various age groups should be developed to illustrate the many facets of library work.

6.2 Library Publications

6.2.1 A proposal for regular support staff column should be developed by LSSIRT and presented to American Libraries and Library Journal for their consideration.

6.2.2 More coverage of support staff issues should be provided by library publications.

APPENDIX 3
SUMMARY OF “DESTINY” ACTION PLANS BY TOPIC

Note: D=do-able, L=long-term, S=sustainable, T=tactical

ALA and Library Support Staff—74 items

1. Appointment of support staff members to ALA and division committees by in-coming ALA president and division presidents.
2. Inclusion of support staff in recognition at all levels.
3. More opportunities in ALA for support staff to participate.
4. Create, foster, and preserve an inclusive environment for support staff in ALA that is a model for state and local library associations.
5. Research agendas for support staff forwarded to appropriate ALA committees, editorial boards, etc.
6. ALA creates a “home” for library workers by establishing a permanent committee and explores the mechanisms to establish an office or division.
7. LISEHUR revisited and revised by a new TF that includes support staff within two years.
8. ALA, with stake-holding organizations to develop a model personnel system and promote it for local adoption, based on existing research.
9. ALA to solicit and develop a statement re-visioning MLS and professional roles based on the new inclusiveness.
10. ALA establish a scholarship initiative (like the ALA Spectrum Scholarship) to fund support staff who are willing to go for MLS.
11. To have many support staff elected to the ALA Executive Board to better represent the national library community.
12. Making sure that selected ALA committees (for example Membership and NMRT) always have a support staff member.
13. ALA award for the library with the most innovative program to enable support staff career development. (D/S)
14. Support staff role within ALA expanded to include:
   a. Council seat(s)
   b. continued organization committee appointments
   c. publications reflect use of library worker as a term
   d. thinking of support staff as team players
15. I would like to see ALA begin with the next administration pushing the initiatives of this Congress to the ALA membership at large and to the local library organizations.
16. I would like to see a follow-up COPE 4 Congress in 2005 or 2006 which follows up on actions and initiatives taken on as a result of the work of COPE 3.
17. Use ALA as a mechanism to accomplish recruitment, standards, education, and compensation goals.
18. ALA, with assistance, cooperation and input from LSSIRT, COLT, etc. conducts a multi-pronged needs assessment of library support staff, focusing on benefits and services ALA can offer library support staff personnel; the basis of the assessment will form an ALA market/outreach campaign designed to attract library support staff. (D, S)
19. Inclusion of support staff (proportionate to workforce) in all levels/efforts of ALA
20. ALA to provide tools to promote pay equity initiatives for support staff (D, L, S)
21. Creation of a new ALA division for library support staff and other library workers
22. An LSSIRT seat on ALA/APA Council
23. Library support staff interest group within ALCTS established and programs created (D,S)
24. ALA funds six regional LSSIRT workshops to promote library support staff issues
25. ALA pulls together information from all LTA programs and online basic skills for library support staff. ALA sets up regional conferences for support staff and encourages member libraries to send some of their staff.
26. ALA establishes a scholarship fund for support staff and recognizes a support staff person of the year.
27. Programming at ALA/Division conferences geared to support staff issues (compensation, training, and career ladders). (T)
28. ALA develops strategies to encourage library administrators to support professional activity for support staff. (S)

29. Communications between ALA and all library staff about information opportunities

30. LSSIRT has representative on as many ALA committees as possible—as interns or full members. Every time NMRT is asked to send a rep., LSSIRT should too.

31. Creation of a support system within ALA for enhancement of library workers, i.e. tool kits, web pages, certification, recognition, etc.

32. ALA divisions initiating dialogues with support staff organizations to update skills lists and minimum educational requirements. (T/S)

33. Inclusion of support staff in all ALA publications/programs, etc. and identify a designated person on ALA staff to which discrepancies with policy may be pointed out.

Certification—45 items

1. LSSIRT (with an ALA division) puts forward a certification program proposal to ALA/APA.

2. Implement support staff certification with multiple levels leading to more pay.

3. Make certain that any ALA certification plan can be implemented on the state and local level.

4. Develop a national certification model inclusive of:
   a. formal education
   b. continuing education
   c. experience in library work
   d. professional development

5. ALA-recognized certification program drawn up by using state programs as models. Include core competencies for various job descriptions and base them on education and experience in various mixes.

6. National certification with recommendations for state programs to follow.

7. The design, probably under the aegis of ALA, of state certification standards to enable support staff to verify competencies and knowledge. This would include more than formal education via LTA programs to also recognize portfolio, CEUs, workshops and other courses that add to skill set of the support staff worker and, hopefully, movement up the career lattice.

8. ALA working with LSSIRT to study pros and cons of certification:
   a. appoint an ALA person to work with Chair of LSSIRT’s certification committee to work on this with a deadline of Midwinter 2004 for concrete results.
   b. create a database of states with certification programs which includes a copy of the certification plan.

9. After an LSSID (Library Support Staff Interests Division) task force has identified best models and practices for support staff certification, ALA supports an effort to get this model adopted locally on a state-by-state basis in a “bottoms-up” style instead of a “top-down” national approach.

10. To develop an ALA task force to investigate existing programs for local certification through LTA to MLIS programs and the best of current HR practices to develop more inclusive lattices.

11. The establishment of a recognized subcommittee within ALA/APA to start the work of certification of support staff.

12. Establish a voluntary national standards-based certification program that recognizes education, experience, and training that will allow accomplished support staff to be recognized for what they know and are able to do. Example: use the NTPTS model for national teacher certification

13. Identify best practices for improved certification that are already out there so that we do not re-create the wheel.

14. ALA endorses new and existing certification programs (that value experience and education) according to established standards. The certification program is meaningful at the local level so employers use it when hiring, promoting, and giving pay increases.

15. A library support staff credentialing program, endorsed by ALA, but "owned" by a support staff group (LSSIRT?, HRDR?) that recognizes and rewards competencies, experience, educational and human qualities, necessary for a ‘quality’ library support staff member.

16. Acknowledgement and promotion nationally of a supervisor/manager/administrator career, certification, and training ladder. (T)

17. If certification is presented, it will include experience and credit for attendance to various continuing education programs and participation in state and national organizations, divided into technical services, circulation, reference, children’s services, etc. (D, S)

18. National LTA certificate established
19. ALA/APA works with stakeholders to design credentialing process with COPE 3 Steering Committee.

ALA Membership/Initiatives—40 items

1. Permanent membership initiative for all ALA members based on a sliding scale
2. ALA should establish permanent, lower rates for support staff
3. Promote and encourage ALA membership among support staff through:
   a. target marketing and publicity
   b. revamped dues structure
   c. cooperative dues with state organization membership
   d. recognition of support staff members and support for networking among support staff members which will encourage retention and additional recruitment
4. ALA re-examines existing membership categories and revises them in order to become more inclusive of all library workers. ALA should not privilege librarians over library workers.
5. A permanent reduced ALA membership rate for support staff, ALCTS, RUSA, and others for ALL support staff, not just new members (D,S)
6. Do a big membership drive for support staff. Develop a new dues category with joint membership in divisions, roundtables in the plan.

Respect—32 items

1. Expertise of support staff valued, respected, and compensated.
2. Realization by librarians to recognize interest of support staff in library issues and actions.
3. Implementation Strategy: "Walk a Mile in My Shoes" Day (job shadowing/switching between librarians and support staff).
4. Mutual respect between librarians and library workers
5. Articles and web information on new ways for library staff to work together in mutual respect including:
   a. how to be a learning organization
   b. how to redesign the work environment
   c. highlight libraries that are successful in these innovations
6. ALA should develop a statement on respect for all library workers.
7. Development of approaches, techniques, curriculum, etc. to improve/enhance relations in library communities…between workers in libraries, between library and their support groups, i.e. trustees, friends, etc.; between library and their constituencies: More than image-enhancing, but working toward elimination of negative and/or adversarial relationships. (S)
8. Adoption of term para-librarian for para-professional level. (D, S)
9. Plan/program method of acknowledging work and worth of all library workers as a national library agenda.
10. Creation of a forum in which support staff and LIS faculty can interact to promote greater understanding and appreciation of support staff for those in their MLS education.
11. Library school programs should include courses to improve personnel management skills related to support staff. (D, S)
12. Redefine “professional” not just to mean the MLS automatically, but as meaning highly competent people who handle complex concepts and operations and show initiative and give back to their community.

Career Paths—27 items

1. ALA develops support staff career pathways model that can be adapted for use in organizations.
2. Career paths allow for the advancement of support staff comparable with MLS and based on individual competencies in critical areas (i.e. interpersonal skills).
3. ALA should define alternate career paths for support staff not interested in seeking the MLS.
4. Recognition of competencies gained through non-traditional paths. Recognition can take the form of performance evaluations, promotions, and salary increases. Career progression/growth for apples (career ladders).
5. Create a career lattice that doesn’t require an MLS.
6. As a first step to standardizing titles of those who do library work to include “librarian”, revise LISEHRU career lattice.
7. ALA adopts theme for a five-year period of recognizing career lattices and recruitment to library careers at all levels.
8. Organized ALA-sponsored agreement on titles:
   a. paraprofessional
   b. professional
   c. associate
   so society observes us as a profession.
9. ALA adoption of a career lattice that includes standardization of requirements (education, experience, certification) for the broad classifications of library work:
   a. library clerk
   b. library assistant
   c. library associate
   d. librarian
   that recognizes differences in library types.
10. Create a way to evaluate support staff for career lattice movement in terms of a portfolio and education that includes both skills and the big picture of information storage and dissemination.
11. Create career tracks lattice nationally as a model for libraries to adopt/adapt.
12. Create career lattices on competency made up of experience and for education, allow room to move and advance.
13. Progressive educational lattice:
   a. LTA programs
   b. BA/BS library minors
   c. BA/BS library majors
   d. MLS classes transfer between programs and institutions—programs available in all states.
14. ALA to sponsor expanded training in Human Resources with new models as bases—to develop classifications, pay for responsibility/performance, virtual work models. (D, S)
15. Identification and training of competency-based basic skills for all library positions on ALA sponsored/maintained distance-learning web site (done in concert with universities and organizational psychologists as needed for quality). (S)
16. Establish a library career ladder for support staff to include:
   a. national standardized job titles
   b. staff training and development standards
   c. certification levels
   d. salary increases and adjustments for
17. An “explosion” of the ALA LISEHRU document career ladders diagram that defines support staff roles, education, training, and competencies which is then widely marketed and disseminated.

Continuing Education—25 items
1. Tie continuing education to rewards:
   a. retain job
   b. promotional opportunities
   c. cash advancement
2. ALA should create and maintain a continuing education clearinghouse. Create a national database with information on educational programs, including information on on-line availability and costs
3. Institutional support for all library workers to obtain continuing professional development including flex time, scholarships, tuition waivers, etc.
4. Plan and implement continuing education standards for support staff.
5. A wide variety of affordable, easily accessible educational products for support staff (both beginning and through-out the career) are created and maintained by ALA with support from state-based library organizations.
6. More effort from library boards and administration to make sure information about CE and workshops are known to support staff.
7. Support staff should be encouraged, supported and funded in their pursuit of continuing education (if they choose to participate).
8. Libraries establish a line item in annual budget of 5% annual staff salary to support continuing education for all library staff.
9. ALA/Divisional sponsorship or regional continuing education opportunities for support staff
10. Funding resources for training, staff development and continuing education, dramatically increased through national resources (ALA, IMLS) spent locally and regionally
11. Transferable” CE opportunities for library support staff who could build a respected “portfolio/knowledge” to advance within the same job, not necessarily to a new job title.
12. Training programs available to help support staff move up the career track.
13. Find a vendor to sponsor conference attendance for one support staff member @ each ALA conference, pre-conference, workshop (D, L, S)
14. Nationally televised (satellite) or internet programs to increase educational opportunities and conformity

Compensation—24 items
1. Guidelines for salaries and compensation for all levels of staff.
2. Support staff included in national and state wage surveys.
3. Fair compensation for all staff is a core value for all libraries. Compensation should be based on skills and experience needed for each job, and aligned with community standards.
4. Increased compensation for all levels of library service.
5. Continue ALA campaign for pay equity.
6. Create a task force to work on formulas for recommended pay scales for library support staff. (D)
7. Competency-based standards translate into job descriptions
8. Better benefits for support staff and their dependents.

Accreditation—21 items
1. Office of Accreditation implements accreditation guidelines for LIS programs that include
