About ALA

The American Library Association (ALA) works for students by advocating for increased library funding and the ongoing development of the profession. Through our accreditation program, ALA ensures that the training you receive will prepare you for your chosen career.

Job Resources

ALA will help you with resources to find your first job and to remain competitive. ALA student members have access to the best network of career and professional development resources for library workers.

Divisions and Round Tables

You need more than classwork to be fully prepared for your career. Joining ALA divisions and round tables is an excellent way to build experience in your specialty by meeting and working with longtime professionals. Student members can take advantage of ALA resources like résumé review services, job placement events, and car & home insurance.

To learn more about ALA and our divisions or round tables, visit www.ala.org or call 1-800-645-2433, ext 5.

About CLA

The Association provides leadership for the development, promotion and improvement of library services, librarianship and the library community.

We help members excel in a fast-changing job market. We're a resource for learning about new ideas and technology, and we actively work to influence legislation affecting libraries and librarians.

CLA Interest Groups

Joining an Interest Group is a great way to be active in CLA and ensure that the Association stays relevant to you. By joining an Interest Group you will meet people who share your interests, have opportunities to be active in your professional association, shape the direction and content of the association, expand your professional network, and contribute to the development of the library community in California.

Interest Groups are groups formed by CLA members around a shared interest. They can be formed by type of library, type of activity, a special interest or geographic area. Interest Groups are a benefit of CLA membership and voting members may join as many groups as they like – all free of charge!

Each group designs its own activities based on what its members need and want. Many Interest Groups present programs for the library community at the annual conference and as part of CLA's Spring Fling professional development and networking program. Others produce newsletters, develop and serve as resources, and facilitate networking. Interest Groups are encouraged to be active in the ways that best meets the needs of their members.
