Editor's Note

LIRT News has grown from a one-page letter to a twenty-page magazine mailed in June just prior to the ALA Conference in Philadelphia. Throughout the years, the editor has received input from all LIRT members regarding library instruction throughout the United States and other countries. Feedback from readers has been tremendous; for, the LIRT News is a newsletter--a vehicle of communication for all types of librarians in many different kinds of situations.

At the July Meeting, the Executive Committee of LIRT reaffirmed just what it expects the newsletter to be. The objectives of LIRT News are to disseminate news of LIRT related activities, to keep members abreast of library instruction related publications and articles, to facilitate the exchange of practical tips on executing successful programs of library instruction. We will publish the opinions of invited guest writers, in addition to comments and contributions from readers. We will also report on regional and state activities related to library instruction.

The news will benefit greatly from the appointment of Eddy Hogan, regional reporter from Colorado, as associate editor for 1982-83. Eddy will then become editor in 1983-84. He, along with the other regional reporters, have helped shape the direction of the publication in the past; and they will continue to do so in the future.

Readers should send their contributions to the editor, the assistant editor, or to the regional reporter from your area. If there is no regional reporter from your area, how about volunteering? The deadline for the December issue is October 15, 1982.

Further news regarding the year's work of LIRT will be included in the annual report of the chairperson which will be published in the December News.

Library Instruction Round Table News is a quarterly publication of the Library Instruction Round Table of the American Library Association. Send claims to Janiece Guy, American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611. News and information to be considered for inclusion in LIRT News should be sent to the editor, Carol Penka, University of Illinois, Library, Reference Dept., 300 Library, 1408 W. Gregory Dr., Urbana, IL 61801.

LIRT Elections

The LIRT Elections Committee is responsible for producing a list of at least two candidates for each position (vice coordinator/coordinator elect, secretary, and treasurer) that will ensure representation on the Executive Board from all or almost all types of Libraries. These candidates will be secured from those who volunteer and those who are nominated. Candidates for office must be current members of the Round Table and must have served for at least one year on a committee or task force of the Round Table. If you would like to run for a LIRT office or would like to nominate someone, please send your name, address and committee service or the same information for the person you are nominating, to Lois M. Pausch, chair, LIRT Elections committee, 220N Library, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, 1408 West Gregory Drive, Urbana, IL 61801 (217/333-2634). Deadline, October 25, 1982.

Interns Needed

THE ACADEMIC LIBRARY MANAGEMENT INTERN PROGRAM is looking for applicants. Each intern selected will spend the 1983-84 academic year working with the director and administrative staff in a large and well-managed research library. Successful applicants will probably have five or more years of professional library experience, including some administrative responsibility. Shelly Phipps, immediate past coordinator of ACRL/BIS was an intern in 1977-78. Deadline for applying is October 11, and application forms may be obtained from: Academic Library Management Intern Program Council on Library Resources 1785 Massachusetts Ave., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036 --Mignon Adams

Call for Papers/ LITA Conference

The first Library and Information Technology Association (LITA) National Conference will be held September 17-21, 1983 in Baltimore, MD. The conference titled "Information and Technology at the Crossroads," will focus on library technology and its ramifications. Among the wide range of topics to be discussed are computer-based instruction and computers and the handicapped. To submit a paper or appear on a program, contact Charlene Renner, Iowa State University Library, Ames, IA 50011; (515) 294-8186. For information and registration forms contact Donald Hammer, executive director, LITA, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611; (312) 944-6780.

Book Review

Freedman, Janet L. and Harold A. Bantly

In 1979, a group in Massachusetts put together a useful compendium of pathfinders, guides, etc., from various libraries in New England. This book is a revised edition with four chapters on the steps in designing a program.

Most useful are the various examples, ranging from a pathfinder on Paul Revere for seventh-graders, through a proposed outline for a public library non-credit course, to a slide-tape script for using Bio-Abstracts. In all there are 24 examples, drawn from all types of libraries and age levels. The variety of the examples should be ample inspiration for librarians developing materials for any topic.

Less successful are the chapters on designing programs. These chapters are too brief to be anything more than a general overview (seven pages on program evaluation can't do more than give an outline). There are also some omissions: program planners are urged to do a literature search, locate an ERIC collection, write for cassettes of ALA presentations—but not to contact LOEX or regional instructional clearinghouses for examples of programs or referrals to people.

Recommended for purchase if you are looking for a handy one-volume collection of various kinds of instructional materials.

News from the Field

In Fall, 1981, on-line data base searching was added to the bibliographic instruction unit of a natural resources management research methods course at Ohio State University. Funds were made available by a grant from the OSU Learning Resources Advisory Council. Under the supervision of librarians, graduate students conducted preliminary research, planned search strategies, and ran their own searches in Lockheed's Dialog. It is felt that this experience will add to the skills students will need in their jobs, since natural resources professionals often have access to on-line systems but not to traditional libraries. Librarians involved in the project are Sharon W. Schwerzel, Biological Sciences Library; Susan V. Emerson, Agriculture Library; and Bern L. Bayer, Mechanized Information Center. Papers were presented at the National On-Line Meeting in March 1982 and for publication. The course instructor was David L. Johnson of the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife Management.

Alice Nixon of the Houston Public Library has designed a series of 17 half-hour programs for user education. These sessions include a history of the library, a behind the scenes look at technical services, how to use indexes, and introductions to the various subject departments. Sessions were presented once a week during the noon hour for the general public and also in the morning before the library opened for staff members. For more information contact Alice Nixon, Houston Public Library, 500 McKinney Avenue, Houston, Texas 77022.

State LIRT Groups News

Alabama
The Alabama Library Instruction Round Table presented a pre-conference on using microcomputers for library instruction at the state library association convention in Huntsville. In addition, results of two surveys were reported. Jan McRae shared the information she gathered from directors of Alabama colleges on the library skills needed by students when they enter college. Melva Strang is completing a survey of the library instruction provided by all kinds of libraries across the state. A directory of members was distributed at the meeting. News of ALIRT, as the group is called, is reported in a column in Alabama Libraries. 1982 moderator is Sharon Stewart, Education Library, University of Alabama, Box S, University, AL 35486.

Colorado
COLORADO LIRT. A library Instruction Round Table has been formed within the Colorado Library Association. CLA/LIRT's organizer and past coordinator is Ben LoBue (University of Colorado, Boulder), one of the original organizers of ALA/ LIRT. Johannah Sherrer (University of Northern Colorado, Greeley) is the current coordinator. The Round Table is in the final stages of preparation of a computer-produced directory of library instruction activities in Colorado. Details of the dissemination and the price (if any) of the directory have yet to be worked out.

COLORADO LIBRARY INSTRUCTION CLEARINGHOUSE (CLIC) ESTABLISHED. The Colorado Library Association Library Instruction Round Table will house its new clearinghouse for library instructional materials at the University of Colorado at Boulder. CLIC will acquire, organize, publicize, and distribute instructional materials produced by Colorado libraries. CLIC will provide copies of its materials in various categories by mail or in person, and will answer telephone questions about available materials. A newsletter, the CLIC Reporter, will be issued twice yearly beginning in Fall 1982 to publicize CLIC activities, list materials received, and solicit new contributions. Each issue will also highlight an instructional activity at a member library. For further information, contact the CLIC coordinator, Deborah Fink, Reference Dept., University Libraries, Box 184, University of Colorado, Boulder CO 80309/(303) 492-7521.

Getting through to People

"Is Anybody Listening? Talking and Teaching Without Trauma; a Workshop on Oral Communication Skills" was given by the Northern Section of the California Clearinghouse on Library Instruction in April at the University of California, San Francisco. The workshop provided theory and techniques for librarians to communicate whether speaking before large audiences or talking with another person. Topics covered included: 1) appropriate language, organization, delivery, and concrete content for public speeches; 2) how to listen, respond, and manage conflict in interpersonal interactions; and 3) principles which explain effective public and interpersonal communication.

The workshop was conducted by Dr. John C. Hammerback and Dr. Gale Y. Schroeder from California State University, Hayward. For information contact Ellen Meltzer, Moffett Undergraduate Library, University of California, Berkeley, California 94720.

Integrated Instruction

A day-long workshop on incorporating library and writing skills in subject-content areas will be held in the fall at Winthrop College in South Carolina. The Winthrop Research Council will provide funding for the workshop, which will be conducted by Patricia Ridgeway, Dacus Library, and Dr. Eva Mills English and Drama Department, Winthrop College.

Plans for the workshop include a keynote address by a scholar from outside the college. There will also be a discussion of library and writing skills followed by small group sessions covering specific strategies and procedures that faculty can use to design effective assignments in the classroom. Interested persons can contact Dacus Library, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, SC 29733.

1982 Program Tapes

Tapes of COMPUTERS! LIBRARIES! LEARNING! the 1982 LIRT program at ALA in Philadelphia are available from ALA Cassettes, American Library Association, 50 East Huron Street, Chicago, IL 60611. Order tapes numbered 82107-691, 692, 693 (3 tapes). The cost is $24.00.

New Journal

Research Strategies: a Journal of Library Concepts and Instruction will begin publication with the January 1983 quarterly issue. Issued by the publishers of The Journal of Academic Librarianship, the journal will be edited by Sharon Hogan and Mary George. Each issue will feature editorial and opinion pieces, theoretical and practical articles, diaries from extensive library research projects and mini-case studies, book and article reviews, a reader's request column, and search strategy outlines and analyses. Contributions and correspondence concerning editorial matters should be sent to the

Videotape

"The Battle of the Library Superstars" is now a part of the Library Instruction Program (LIP) for freshmen at Ohio State University. During fall quarter 1981, approximately 4,000 students viewed this videotape which follows two students, Pam Prepply and Sam Sweatsock, as they compete in three events: the card catalog chase, the magazine mania, and the Library Control System shootout. (The Library Control System is OSU's on-line catalog.) The action, which reflects the search strategy concept, is interrupted by commercials for library services. "Superstars" was written and produced by librarians Tom McNally and Jane Segal; filming and editing was done by professionals from OSU's Public Television station. The parts of Pam, Sam, and four other characters were played by actors recruited from the University's summer repertory company.

If you would like to find out whether Pam or Sam was the winner, "The Battle of the Library Superstars" is available from OSU through interlibrary loan. A copy is also available at LEOX.

Instruction Manual

A 131-page manual describing the bibliographic instruction program developed by the Undergraduate Library at the University of Texas at Austin is now available. Written by Barbara Schwartz and Susan Burton, this manual describes the philosophy, methodology, and development of the program including failures as well as successes. Also included are discussions of the formative and summative evaluations used to develop the program and an examination of the impact of the program on the library. The appendix provides copies of printed instructional materials and the Program objectives. Copies of the manual, Teaching Library Skills in Freshman English: An Undergraduate Library's Experience, are available for $15.00 (made payable to the University of Texas at Austin General Libraries). Mail orders to Publications, The General Libraries, PCL 3.200, The University of Texas at Austin, Austin, TX 78712.

Teaching Packages

A series of ten Library Teaching Packages has been developed by the Library Instruction Division of the Baruch College under a Title III grant. The teaching Packages consist of a set of transparencies, a statement of objectives, a script and lecture notes for the teacher, and a bibliography, handouts and exercises for students. All packages are based on an instructional model designed by Dr. Pauline M. Rothstein. The ten L.T.P.'s already in use cover the following subjects: Advertising, Literary Criticism, Retailing, Accounting, Legislation, Consumer Behavior, and the Ethnic Experience in the U.S. More are in preparation. The materials are available from Baruch College, Library Instruction Services, Box 317, 17 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Bibliography

The Anchorage School District Library Resources has prepared for the Anchorage School District a complete listing of resources housed in the district on library orientation and library skills. The bibliography was developed with the use of the Data Factory Program using a Library Resources APPLE II microcomputer. In addition, Library Resources has generated bibliographies on all the machine readable data files in the district and periodicals in the district. A complementary project on multi-media resource identification, and multi-media use and review resources identification will be issued in the future. Sylvia Fink, Cataloger, was project coordinator. Additional information is available from Ruth Jean Shaw, Manager, Library Resources, 1800 Hillcrest, Anchorage, AL 99503.

Grants Awarded

The College and University Libraries Division of the Texas Library Association recently awarded a research grant to Jan Blodgett, Assistant Reference Librarian at the Cornette Library, West Texas State University to develop instructional materials for research methods classes introducing online database searching techniques.

The British Library Research and Development department has awarded Loughborough University of Technology Library a grant of £62,000 for three years to continue to support the British Library Information Officer for User Education Project. In this new phase there will be particular emphasis on the provision of an advisory service as well as an information service, and an extension of interest towards the teaching of information skills in schools and the promotion of public library services. The primary aims of the project are to investigate, coordinate, promote and develop in library and information user education in all library and information sectors in the UK. These will be effected by the acquisition of information, and its subsequent repackaging and dissemination in various published and non-published formats.

Further information on the project is available from Ian Malley, British Library Information Officer for User Education Library, Loughborough University of Technology, Loughborough, Leicestershire, LE11 3TU, Tel. 0509-63171, Ext. 5138. Telex 34319 Unitec G.

The Bibliographic Instruction Section of ACRL through its Continuing Education Committee has been awarded a Jones-Howard World Book Encyclopedia ALA Goal Award from the ALA Awards Committee. This award will provide for a series of regional workshops to be offered in conjunction with state library conferences during the 1982-83 fiscal year. Workshop leaders from the 1979 and 1981 ACRL/BIS preconferences will lead workshops on such topics as the one-hour stand, conceptual frameworks, classroom dynamics, etc. To obtain further descriptive information about workshop locations and enrollment procedures, please contact:

A New Publication from LIRT

Developing Learning Skills Through Library Services, K-12 was compiled by Zella Lewis under the auspices of the LIRT National Programs Study Task Force, chaired by Eileen Dubin. The publication was compiled from a 1980 survey of existing instructional practices as reflected in current guides for library services sent by public schools from thirty-six different states. It contains hundreds of successful mental and physical "learning activities" which develop thinking and reporting skills useful in any subject area. These techniques may be integrated into classroom instruction at varying grade levels through cooperative participation of the teacher and the librarian. The activities are of varying difficulty and some are adaptable for use on minicomputers, carousell slide/tapes,
These instructional ideas, presented in a sequential format, will enable students to learn efficient ways to locate information, read critically, organize details, reach conclusions, and choose effective methods of reporting.

The document is available from ERIC as document number ED211095. Paper copy is $18.50, plus $2.59 shipping. The microfiche edition is $1.95. Order from ERIC Document Reproduction Service, P. O. Box 190, Arlington, VA 22210.

New BI Publications

Learning the Library: Concepts and Methods for Effective Bibliographic Instruction
By Anne K. Beaubien, Sharon A. Hogan, and Mary W. George. New York, Bowker, July, 1982. $35.00.

Learning the Library is a step-by-step "how-to" guide which details an academic bibliographic instruction program and offers a comprehensive examination of concepts, techniques, and applications. Sections of the book include: Understanding the Research Process, Presenting the Research Process, and Implementing the Program.

Theories of Bibliographic Education: Designs for Teaching
By Cerise Oberman and Katina Strauch. New York, Bowker, July, 1982. $35.00

This volume is intended to remedy the absence of theory-based instructional literature. It is a collection of essays focusing on the philosophical and theoretical principles upon which bibliographic instruction is based. Each of the nine original essays is written by a practicing librarian or library educator who has explored the theoretical basis of his or her teaching efforts.
