Report for 2016 Annual Conference of the American Library Association in Orlando.

Canadian Library Association

The following CLA resources will be affected by the change: the CLA-GIN listserv will be retired. It’s hoped that the community will move over to the GOVINFO listserv for information sharing. The CLA GIN twitter will be shut down in June 2016, but the Canadian government community is hoping people will continue to tweet with and follow the hashtag #cdngovinfo.

The CLA GIN Blog will be rebranded without the CLA name: https://agiig.wordpress.com/

Government of Canada

Consultations for the next phase of Canada’s open government have opened for the next 2 years (2016-2018). The consultations for the 2014-2016 action plan have ended. Canada’s government is now legally obligated to be “open” and the implementation timeline is 2016-2018.

Library and Archives Canada (LAC)

LAC’s Government of Canada Web Archive is now live and the results of their crawls can be browsed by institution or by URL.  http://www.bac-lac.gc.ca/eng/discover/archives-web-government/Pages/web-archives.aspx

A new partnership has been struck between LAC and Bibliothèque et Archives nationales de Québec (BAnQ) with the hope of incorporating up to 10,000 digital publications from Quebec publishers to LAC’s collection of Canadian documentary heritage.

Depository Services Program (DSP)

The DSP is retrospectively digitizing the Weekly Checklist. So far their collection consists of the following:

- Weekly checklist of Canadian government publications 2013 / 2014 / 2015
- Canadian government publications; catalogue 1953..1977
  http://publications.gc.ca/site/eng/9.809037/publication.html
- Daily checklist of Canadian government publications 1978 few…
- Special list of Canadian government publications 1979 ..1983

The DSP is currently digitizing the Weekly / Daily / Publication checklists and older Government of Canada digitized material is being added to their collection daily.

United Nations Economic Commission for Africa – ECA

www.uneca.org

The Economic Commission for Africa (ECA) is one of the UN's five regional commissions and was established by the United Nations (UN) Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) in 1958. “ECA's mandate is to promote the economic and social development of its member States, foster intra-regional integration, and promote international cooperation for Africa's development.” ECA provides technical advisory services to African governments, IGOs, and institutions, and is also the “regional arm of the UN.”

ECA has seven thematic areas of focus: Macroeconomic Policy, Social Development, Regional Integration and Trade, Natural Resource Management, Innovation & Technology, Gender, and Governance. Five Sub-Regional Offices (SROs) also take the lead in their respective sub-regions.

Publications and Information

Many publications are available for free download under the “Publications” menu (http://www.uneca.org/publications). Publications are divided into essential readings, flagship reports, policy reports, and policy briefs. They are also browseable in a single long list. Additionally, each of the thematic areas of focus and SROs also has a “publications” link for its own publications.

Recent essential and flagship publications include:

The ECA has also launched new Country Profiles Online: http://www.uneca.org/acs/pages/country-profiles-online

Print publications can be ordered by submitting the form in the Publications Catalogue 2016 (http://www.uneca.org/publications/publications-catalogue-2016) to:

E-mail: ecainfo@uneca.org

Knowledge Services Section (http://www.uneca.org/kss)
In addition to providing core services for ECA Library users, the ECA Knowledge Services Section hosts an institutional repository and the Access to Scientific/Socio-economic Knowledge in Africa (ASKIA) portal.

- The ECA Institutional Repository (http://repository.uneca.org/) contains published resources including flagship publications, journal articles, conference proceedings, technical reports, mission reports, annual reports, working papers, speeches and other grey literature dating back as far as 1958. The ECA IR is built on DSpace and complies with Dublin Core Metadata Initiative (DCMI) standards, using AGRIS Application Profile, which maps MARC21 metadata to Simple Dublin Core, and MODS metadata sets exposed through the Open Archives Initiative Protocol for Metadata Harvesting (OAI-PMH) protocol.
- The Access to Scientific and Socio-economic Knowledge in Africa (ASKIA) (http://askia.uneca.org/askia/) federated search portal is described as a “framework for bringing together scientific and socio-economic information for the African community,” but as a powerful discovery tool that cross-searches open access.
repositories for articles, books, and other sources, it is extremely useful not just in Africa but for searchers across the globe and most disciplines. (For example, it turned out to be especially strong at finding digitized historic primary sources tucked in repositories around the world.)

Statistics

The ECA Databank, StatBase, is a platform for “the compilation and dissemination of statistical data on various socio-economic indicators on African countries.” It includes indicators in areas such as Population, Education, Health, National Accounts, Agriculture, Mining, Energy, Environment, Tourism, Trade, and the Millennium Development Goals indicators.

United Nations Economic Commission for Europe – ECE

www.unece.org

The United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE) was established in 1947 by the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC). As one of five regional commissions of the United Nations, its primary purpose is the promotion of pan-European economic integration, and its 56 member countries are distributed throughout the European Union, non-EU Western and Eastern Europe, South-East Europe and Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), and North America. Any UN member may participate in UNECE’s work, and over 70 international professional organizations and other non-governmental organizations are involved in UNECE activities.

The UNECE “promotes sustainable development and economic prosperity” through: policy dialogue, negotiation of international legal instruments, development of regulations and norms, exchange and application of best practices as well as economic and technical expertise, and technical cooperation for countries with economies in transition. Its areas of expertise include: economic cooperation and integration, environmental policy, forests, housing and land management, population, statistics, sustainable energy, trade, and transport.

Publications and Information

Many publications are available for free download under the “Publications” menu (http://www.unece.org/publications/oes/welcome.html), and each of the thematic areas features topical publications as well. Recent publications of interest include:
UNECE and Climate Change: http://www.unece.org/index.php?id=42546
Riding Towards the Green Economy: Cycling and Green jobs. (Executive Summary, full report will be released later this year): http://www.unece.org/index.php?id=43126

Report submitted by Annelise Sklar, IDTF Agency Liaison for UNECE
June 25, 2016 <asklar@ucsd.edu>
Annelise Sklar is the Social Sciences Collections Coordinator and Librarian for Political Science, Law & Society, Environmental Policy, and International Government Information at UC San Diego
The EU has tried recently to vastly simplify its homepage by creating a more basic directory of information, focusing on six distinct areas of inquiry—“About the EU,” “EU by Topic,” “Living, Working, Travelling in the EU,” “Doing Business,” “EU Law,” and “Documents and Publications.” Each of these links leads the researcher to a very basic “table of contents.”

Although the Open Data directive from the European Union was disseminated several years ago, it is worth reiterating and revisiting, particularly in light of the open data movement among major international organizations such as the World Bank. A consolidated version of the well-documented directive is available here: http://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/EN/ALL/?uri=CELEX:02003L0098-20130717. The Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee and Committee and Committee of the Regions (“Open Data: An Engine for Innovation, Growth and Transparent Governance”) is here: http://eur-lex.europa.eu/LexUriServ/LexUriServ.do?uri=COM:2011:0882:FIN:EN:PDF. A key element of the directive’s implementation has been the development and maintenance of the Open Data Portal, which now contains over 8,600 datasets.

General Information

Despite the restructuring of the site, the European Union’s web presence can at times remain overwhelming, but contains a plethora of reports, statistics, official documents (e.g., legislation, court cases from the European Court of Justice, etc.), and tools/manuals is EUROPA (http://europa.eu). There are several means by which to access the information, e.g., one can search by relevant institution (European Parliament, Committee of the Regions, European Central Bank, etc.).

The main publications office is located here: http://publications.europa.eu/index.htm

Most documents are available as PDF downloads for free; check out the “just published” link for the most recent publications. You can also search by broad subject category.

Most institutions of the European Union have their own subsites dedicated to accentuating their work and publications, e.g.:

ECLAS serves as the main database for the European Commission library in Brussels; includes mostly secondary materials on European Union policies, activities, relations, etc.: http://ec.europa.eu/eclas/F. Many documents are in electronic format, others need to be searched within one’s respective catalogue. There is a large archive of news bulletins, quick/rapid reports and the like on the “What’s New on Europa”: http://europa.eu/geninfo/whatsnew_en.htm

EU news has the most updated information on European activities (searchable): http://europa.eu/news/index_en.htm

The European Union offers numerous mailing lists and RSS feeds to keep interested parties current. The RSS feeds are divided into a substantial number of specific areas so that subscribers receive more targeted information: http://europa.eu/press_room/mailing-rss/index_en.htm

As a reminder, the Europa site is administered, maintained, and archived by the Communication department of the European Commission on behalf of the EU institutions.

Also of potential interest:

A press release inventory/database, particularly of interest in light of the migrant/asylum crisis (e.g., a search for “asylum” brings up a multitude of results highlighting meetings, discussions, and developments in the management of the crisis) and the upcoming UK referendum on membership in the European Union:

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations
– FAO
www.fao.org

The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations – FAO, leads international efforts to defeat hunger. FAO serves both developed and developing countries as a neutral forum where all nations can meet to negotiate agreements and debate policy. FAO is also a source of knowledge and information. FAO’s web pages are an excellent free resource for anyone to use who is looking for any kind of international agricultural statistics or other information.

Recent Publications

(Yummy) Title of the Month:
Pulses: Nutritious seeds for a sustainable future. Year of publication: 2016. Publisher: FAO
Pages: 196 p. Job Number: 15528

This coffee table book is part guide and part cookbook—informative without being technical. The book begins by giving an overview of pulses, and explains why they are an important food for the future. It also has more than 30 recipes prepared by some of the most prestigious chefs in the world and is peppered with infographics.

Part I gives an overview of pulses and gives a brief guide to the main varieties in the world. Part II explains step-by-step how to cook them, what to keep in mind and what condiments and instruments to use. Part III underscores the five messages that FAO conveys to the world about the impact pulses have on nutrition, health, climate change, biodiversity and food security. Part IV illustrates how pulses can be grown in a garden patch with easy gardening instructions and how they are grown in the world, highlighting major world producers, importers and exporters. Part V takes the reader on a journey around the world showing how pulses fit a region’s history and culture and visits 10 internationally acclaimed chefs as they go the market to buy pulses. Back at their restaurant or home, each chef prepares easy dishes and gives their best kept secrets. Each chef provides 3 recipes that are beautifully illustrated. [In case you didn’t know what “pulses” are, Pulses are part of the legume family, but the term “pulse” refers only to the dried seed. Dried peas, edible beans, lentils and chickpeas are the most common varieties of pulses. Pulses are very high in protein and fibre, and are low fat.]

Recent Releases:

Animal health and economics are closely linked. Any decision taken to prevent, control and eliminate an animal disease is based not only on the technical knowledge available about a particular disease but also on the effectiveness and socio-economic aspects associated with interventions and mitigation measures implemented by governments, producers and all the actors along the livestock value chains. Economic rationale drives decisions in assessing particular investments which are likely to result in a benefit for society or for a specific stakeholder, including livestock farmers and communities. These guidelines prepared by FAO will contribute to a better understanding of the importance of economic analysis when assessing the impact of a particular animal disease in production, trade, market access, food security and livelihoods of rural communities, or when designing or implementing an animal health strategy at national, regional or global level.
• Family Farming: Meeting the Zero Hunger Challenge. Year of Publication: 2016. Publisher: FAO. Pages: 276. Job no. 15650

To commemorate the International Year of Family Farming, the M.S. Swaminathan Research Foundation (MSSRF), Chennai and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nation (FAO) Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific, Bangkok, organized an Asia-Pacific Regional Consultation at Chennai in August 2014. Several background papers were prepared for discussion at the conference. The present publication brings together these background papers, which are rich in data and content on issues relating to family farming

Human Development Reports

For a quarter century the United Nations landmark series Human Development Reports has forged a new platform for social, cultural, economic and political study and understanding on a global basis. The worldwide Global Report has been annually or every other year. Regional reports have been annual, while national reports were issued every few years.

Now the Office responsible for the Reports is undertaking a wholesale revision of the entire series.

Measuring Human Development in the Future, issued June 1, 2016. Authored by By Selim Jahan, Director, Human Development Report Office, this states that while “

The HDI remains one of – if not the – most influential of indices in development debates … But, today, with new conceptual understanding and greater availability of data, there is an opportunity to work towards even more meaningful and more relevant measures of human development progress…”

The development landscape of 2016 is very different to that of 1990 when the first human development report was released. But just as the landscape has changed, so too have the available indicators and data that are vital for understanding the directions in which we want to head, and designing the policies to get there. The next Human Development Report will signal directions for progress in human development assessment for the next 25 years.

Perhaps this will be a good thing. But in the summer of 2016, with the entire United Nations Depository Library Programme on a global basis precipitously teetering on the brink of wholesale destruction, and that being engineered from within the organization, and that after seventy years of providing nearly free transparency and legitimacy for the UN, a sudden total revamp of the Human Development Report program raises serious questions about the who and what and especially the why of the new order for HDR.

In any case, it has been a useful tool for the world’s peoples. All of them. Long live the Human Development Report.

Current Titles of Special Note

  “Harvesting information from international data repositories as well as regional and national statistical sources, the KILM offers data for over 200 countries. The 17 chapters provide detailed information related to 36 data tables, including indicators on employment (occupation, status, sector, hours, etc.), labour underutilization and the characteristics of job seekers, education, wages, labour productivity and working poverty. Taken together, these indicators provide a strong foundation from which to address key questions related to productive employment and decent work.” ILO web.

  “The number of individual disputes arising from day-to-day workers’ grievances or complaints continues to grow in many parts of the world. The chapters in this book cover individual labour dispute settlement systems in Each chapter examines and assesses the institutions and mechanisms for settlement of individual labour disputes...

“This edition of the WESO looks at poverty reduction and how it has been influenced by income inequality and the availability of quality jobs in developing and developed countries.” ILO web.

“This report examines the effectiveness of active labour market policies implemented in Latin America, notably policies carried out in Argentina, Colombia and Peru. Latin America and the Caribbean have achieved significant economic, labour market and social progress in recent decades. However, progress has begun to slow on a number of fronts that will challenge the ability of policy-makers to sustain these gains...” ILO web.

Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions (AREAER)

The IMF has published the Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions (AREAER) annually since 1950. This proprietary database tracks the exchange rate and trade regimes of all members of the IMF and is the only comprehensive source for this type of information. This year there will be some changes with the way AREAER is packaged and presented. A new AREAER Online platform will be released soon. Additional information on this update will be sent to subscribers during the summer. Also, starting with the 2016 edition, a printed Overview will no longer be packaged with the CD-rom; this content will be incorporated into the CD-rom. AREAER Online is available as standalone subscription or as part of the eLibrary Complete package.

Work is being done to enhance documents and publications within the eLibrary collection. Users may have noticed that some document pages include supplemental material in the right hand column. This “right rail” content can include infographics, data, charts, and figures that relate to text on the page; links to related documents; and in some cases abstracts and reviews from GetAbstracts. [GetAbstracts periodically reviews and abstracts IMF documents and publications; and we are now able to share these reviews on eLibrary through a new arrangement with GetAbstract.]

In a few months, a new subscription option that includes an enhanced data package for subscribers will be introduced: IMF DataPLUS from Data-Planet. IMF DataPLUS will provide easy access to an extensive repository of standardized and structured statistical data from IMF as well as a number of other sources. DataPlus will make it easy to compare data from multiple sources and will allow users to combine the series they need for models, analysis, and presentations. Data will be presented in charts, maps, graphs, and table formats, via multiple points of entry. Detailed information will be forthcoming.

For more information on eLibrary trials and subscription rates, please contact Alexa Smith at asmith2@imf.org

Tax Law Technical Notes

A new series from the IMF Legal Department was launched this spring: “Tax Law Technical Notes.” These periodic reports are available for free download from IMF.org and aim to present general research and information from the IMF’s Legal Department to a broader audience. Other online series from the IMF include Staff Discussion Notes, IMF Working Papers, and IMF Technical Notes and Manuals. For a complete listing of these free series, visit the publication page on IMF.org.
IMF eBookstore (bookstore.imf.org)

A new enhanced eBookstore was released in early June. In addition to the new look and feel, the online bookstore will also include “Also of Interest” and “Readers also Bought” features. If you have our bookstore bookmarked, please take the time to update the bookmark to new url: bookstore.imf.org. Following is a list of some recent and forthcoming publications. For additional information on the titles and available formats download a copy of our catalog, visit us in the exhibit hall or visit bookstore.imf.org.

Report submitted by Catherine Morse, IDTF Agency Liaison
June 25, 2016 <cmorse@umich.edu>
Catherine Morse is Government Information, Law and Political Science Librarian at University of Michigan

The OECD consists of 34 member countries. The last expansion was in 2010. In May 2013, the OECD decided to launch accession discussions with Colombia and Latvia; in April 2015, it invited Costa Rica and Lithuania to open formal OECD accession talks. Key partners are Brazil, China, India, Indonesia, and South Africa. Many of the same statistics collected for member countries are collected for these nations. The OECD has co-operative relations with more than 70 non-member economies.

OECD iLibrary is the platform hosting OECD publications and data. All books and papers published since 1998 as well as statistics with data back to the early 1960s are included. All site visitors have read access to all OECD publications as well as to a small percentage of open access titles and web books such as the OECD Factbook. A subscription offers additional access to premium content and features such as PDFs; tables and graphs presenting the underlying data from publications; and ready-made tables extracted from databases by OECD statisticians; links from data to related analytical publications; research and technical support, training, and subscription management features such as MARC records and COUNTER-compliant usage statistics. It allows download for off-line use, search within a document, copy/paste, calculate, print, data archive, and bulk downloads. It also allows perpetual access to all previously subscribed publications including databases. The data archive is only available to subscribers and delivers data and metadata in csv format. Since July 2015, all OECD data is accessible to all users in a basic form ‘as is’. Training and technical support is only available to OECD iLibrary subscribers.

OECD iLibrary also contains content published by the Nuclear Energy Agency, PISA (Programme for International Student Assessment), and the International Transport Forum. International Energy Agency’s (IEA) data is not included and is largely available only through subscription through the OECD iLibrary platform. In addition, one can subscribe to separate subscriptions to Nordic publications (about 60% English in the Norden iLibrary), the Commonwealth iLibrary, and select materials from the United Nations (UN iLibrary) on the same platform.

The OECD continues to produce monographs and working papers on development, economic cooperation, education, energy and environment, foreign aid, information communication & technology, labor, migration, science & technology, taxation, and transportation. Publications cover not only OECD nations but others as well. A few notable examples are:

- China's Engagement in Global Energy Governance
- Concerns Related to the Internationalisation of State Owned Enterprises
- Costs of Decommissioning Nuclear Power Plants
- Development of High-speed Networks and the Role of Municipal Networks
- Developments in International Mobile Roaming
- Does gender discrimination in social institutions matter for long-term growth?
- Financial Education Policies in Asia and the Pacific
- Illicit Trade Converging Criminal Networks
- Mind the skills gap! Regional and industry patterns in emerging economies
- Monetary Policy and Inequality
- The Ocean Economy in 2030
- Pharmaceutical Expenditure and Policies
- Who are the top 1% earners in Europe?

OECD remains a rich source for its ongoing periodicals and its data covering a wide variety of topics. Two of note are OECD Health Statistics and OECD International Development Statistics. OECD will be exhibiting at ALA Booth 806. Please stop by to welcome Iain Williamson who joins Nilar Andrea Chit Tun.

- Readex AllSearch
  For the first time, students and scholars have the capability to search seamlessly across all Readex digital collections available at their institution. By consolidating all document types—historical imprints, newspapers, and government documents—Readex AllSearch enables users to make new and unexpected discoveries within one streamlined, mobile-friendly new platform. Cross-searchable collections include America’s Historical Newspapers, America’s Historical Imprints, U.S. Congressional Serial Set, FBIS Daily Reports, JPRS Reports and the World Newspaper Archive.

- Immigrations, Migrations and Refugees: Global Perspectives, 1941-1996
  This crucial digital archive offers wide-ranging perspectives on human migration that stretch far beyond the borders of the United States. With firsthand accounts from reputable sources around the world, the collection covers such important events as post-World War II Jewish resettlement, South African apartheid and Latin American migrations to the United States. It also covers such controversial issues as ethnic friction, religious movements, border issues, the treatment of refugees and much more.

- The Cold War: Global Perspectives on East-West Tensions, 1945-1991
  From the end of World War II to the early 1990s, the Cold War was the central driving force in global politics. In addition to nuclear arms races and shifting military alliances, the Cold War years had a critical impact on many of today’s most intriguing research topics, from technology to terrorism, immigration to international politics. Spanning five decades, The Cold War brings together primary source documents from around the world to shed new light on this crucial period in world history.

The United Nations Industrial Development Organization – UNIDO

http://www.unido.org

Established as an autonomous body within the UN by the General Assembly in 1966, UNIDO is the specialized agency that promotes industrial development for poverty reduction, inclusive globalization, and environmental sustainability. As of February 2016 there were 170 member states in UNIDO. The organization’s programmatic focus includes three thematic priorities, representing three different aspects of inclusive and sustainable industrial development: creating shared prosperity, advancing economic competitiveness, and safeguarding the environment.
Most UNIDO titles can be freely accessed from the Publications section of UNIDO’s website. Other titles, co-published by Edward Elgar, can be ordered through links from UNIDO’s site. A few of the titles published by UNIDO since January 2016 include:

- Annual Report 2015 “Marking the transition to a new era in the global fight against poverty, 2015 was a critical year for the international community. With the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the United Nations General Assembly adopted a universal vision of creating equitable, prosperous and environmentally sustainable societies.” Read online or download as pdf.

- Industrial Development Report 2016, The Role of Technology and Innovation in Inclusive and Sustainable Industrial Development. This report addresses the question: under which conditions do technology and innovation achieve inclusive and sustainable industrial development? The main finding is that technology can serve all three dimensions of sustainability simultaneously. Download as a pdf or purchase for 40.00 Euro.

- The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development: Achieving the industry-related goals and targets. Shows how UNIDO’s mission of promoting sustainable industrial development fits into the broader 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development adopted by the UN in September 2015. Download brochure as pdf.

- International Yearbook of Industrial Statistics 2016. This flagship publication of UNIDO provides worldwide statistics on the current level, structure and trends in the manufacturing sector. This title can be ordered from Edward Elgar through the UNIDO website for $301.50.

United Nations Statistics Division
unstats.un.org

The UN Statistics Division administratively sits under the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and Economic and Social Development. There are four topical branches that collect, compile and disseminate key statistical publications, as well as work on methodological standards for classifying statistics in their areas. They are: Economic Statistics Branch, Demographic and Social Statistics, Environment and Energy Statistics Branch, and the Trade Statistics Branch. The final branch is the Statistical Services Branch that is responsible for compiling and documenting “crosscutting UN databases for print and electronic dissemination”.

News

- UNStats on YouTube!
  https://www.youtube.com/user/UNStats
  If you missed the 29th Session of the UN Group of Experts on Geographic Names (UNGEGN) meetings, recordings for the entire five days of meetings are available here.

- UNSD Website Redesign! Sort of…
  If you haven’t visited the UN Stats Division website in a few months, now is the time to check it out. The homepage is still the same for the most part, but the Publications and Meetings & Events pages have been updated with a new look and feel. It appears that the website is still in transition, though. For example, the main landing pages have new URLs and a new design; but links to various sections still go to the old site. Following includes the URLs for each of these sections:

Publications

If you click on the link to “Browse all Publications” you will be directed back to the old URL.

Meetings and Events

A nice feature of the redesigned site are the filters that you can use to find UNSD sponsored events: by type of event (conference, workshop, seminar, etc), by topic (Archiving, Balance of Payments, Big Data, Census Programme, etc.), by year, by location,

UN Comtrade+

UN Comtrade+ was initially released in 2014. While it is still in beta, UNSD has been developing and improving it’s functionality. Specifically, “it includes modern browser support, works well on mobile phones and tablets, and is powered by an open API.” They have also set of data visualization tools for a variety of trade data. There are Here’s a brief rundown of the features:

Accessing the data:
   The old Comtrade site is still up and functioning, so for those comfortable with this interface and extracting data from it, you can still use it.

   This is the new version of the data extract interface; they are still collecting feedback on the functionality. At the moment, downloads are limited to 50,000 records.

3. APIs
   The beauty of the UN Comtrade+ site is that it enables access to the data via API. There are two distinct flavors:

   A. UN Comtrade data extraction API or the Public API http://comtrade.un.org/data/doc/api/
   This replaces what UNSD refers to as the Legacy API http://comtrade.un.org/ws/
   It appears to be freely available; but there are download limits, http://comtrade.un.org/data/doc/api/-Limits

   If you or your institution has set up a “premium access” account, then the bulk data API is available to access full data set downloads in a compressed CSV format. Entire classification-years may be downloaded. Reporter-classification-years may be accessed as well. Since the files have been already been generated this API provides a much faster interface to access large amounts of data. There are two main access points, one for bulk file availability and the other to download the bulk files.

If you have questions about accessing the data from Comtrade+, including premium access, contact them at: comtrade@un.org.

Visualizing the Data

3. SASVisual Analytics for UNCOMTRADE According to the description on the website: “The UN Statistics Division and SAS have collaborated to provide real-time insights and analytics on 300+ million rows of data from UN Comtrade, unlocking rich insights hidden in its wealth of trade information to policy makers, the business community, research institutions and the general public.”

There is a free edition and a paid subscription option – both claim to provide “unlimited access” to the data. The free edition provides access to data from 1988 to 2013. The subscription offering is for one week ($25), one month ($50) or one year ($500) provides data from 1988 to the most current weekly refresh of the data as well as the “the ability to drill deeper into the data and access to additional visualizations not included in basic edition”. https://www.sas.com/en_us/software/visual-analytics-comtrade.html#getstarted.

Be sure to use Chrome or Safari when accessing the SAS Free Edition; it didn’t work well with Firefox.

New Publications

UN Statistical Yearbook, 2013 has been published and is available freely, online. You can download the PDF and the tables in XLS. UNSD has a brief 5 question survey up about the Year Book – linked at the top of the page - it’s worth submitting comments. http://unstats.un.org/unsd/publications/statistical-yearbook

World Statistics Pocketbook, 2015
The PDF is available for free download. Also, if you are an Android mobile user, there is an Android App for the Pocketbook. Sorry iOS users, no app for you. ALA 2016 Annual Conference (Orlando) IDTF Report

Highlights:
1. World Bank eLibrary Updates
2. New World Development Report App
3. Notable Reviews
4. Webinars/Training
5. Notable Recent and Forthcoming Releases

1. World Bank eLibrary Updates

   • Recommended Readings Added to Aid in Course Selections
     New Recommended Readings in the World Bank eLibrary are intended to assist researchers and professors seeking course content. Each list contains a combination of the content most frequently used in academic courses and the most recent World Bank research available in the World Bank eLibrary. The following topics are available now: Climate Change and Development, Conflict and Development, Gender Economics, Microfinance, Monitoring and Evaluation, Power and Energy, Sustainable Urban Development, and Women and Children’s Health. The lists will be updated periodically, and new topics will be added.

   • Translations
     French and Spanish collections are available in the World Bank eLibrary. To browse all translated titles available in each language, simply select “Multilingual Content” from the “Collections” tab along the top navigation bar, then select a language. More titles and other language collections will be added, including Arabic, Chinese, and Portuguese.

   • New World Bank Podcast Series: Ideas Unbound
World Bank authors and experts discuss the key messages of their works in a new World Bank SoundCloud podcast series called Ideas Unbound. The podcasts appear next to their corresponding publications in the eLibrary. To browse all Ideas Unbound podcasts, go to https://soundcloud.com/worldbank/sets/ideas-unbound. We encourage librarians to share these podcasts in their social media channels and other promotions to patrons.

- “Cited By” and “References” Tabs with Links to External and Internal Sources
  The “Cited by” and “References” tabs for eLibrary publications help users further their research. “Cited By” displays a list of publications that have cited the World Bank work, with links to those sources via partnerships like CrossRef for non-Bank publications and internal eLibrary links for Bank publications. The “References” tab enriches the reference lists and bibliographies of chapters, journal articles, and working papers, taking users to the original source when the CrossRef link appears.

- Case Studies
  The World Bank eLibrary has hundreds of case studies on development that can be used in country comparisons or other research in business or international development courses. To find them in the eLibrary, search “case study” (as a phrase, using quotes) in the Quick or Advanced Search. As always, search results can be filtered by title, country, or several other options.

- Coming Soon: Data Time Series and Download Enhancements, plus Data Usage Report
  This summer – 2016 - the data features in eLibrary will be enhanced so users can select, view, and download any or all available years in a time series at once. The current limit is five years at once. A new report for subscribers to view data usage in particular will also be introduced.

- Coming Soon: New Content Collections
  Several new collections to be added over the summer of 2016 will include Presidential Speeches, and Country Strategy Documents (Systematic Country Diagnostic and Country Partnership Framework documents that identify and guide the key development objectives for World Bank Group country programs) and several other important gray literature series. Details to follow.

2. World Development Report App Update
   Available for iPhone, iPad, and Android devices, the newly updated World Development Report App allows readers to access the 2016 Digital Dividends report in sequence, or browse and search the text, tables, figures, maps, and boxes by:
   - Topic
   - Economy
   - Keyword

   The 2016 World Development Report: Digital Dividends shows that while the digital revolution has forged ahead, worker skills, as well as governing regulations and institutions have not kept pace. Countries need to create favorable conditions for businesses, people and governments to take advantage of technology.

3. Notable Reviews

“The report in lucid language is highly readable, made readily comprehensible with many spotlights, boxed concepts, axiomatic quotations, figures, color maps and tables. Data is up to date and, of course, authentic. Each chapter ends with copious references and notes. The report is de facto a comprehensive handbook on digital economy covering all sectors and sections of the global society. It can easily be used as a textbook for teaching and learning the most outstanding discipline of knowledge society – the ICT and its empowerment. Production standards are high. Layout is easy on the eyes, though a subject, topical and concept index would have enhanced its reference value.”

4. Webinars and Training

The recording for the June 16, 2016 webinar with CHOICE on “Solving the World’s Problems: Connecting Students with International Government Information for Country Case Studies” is available at http://acrlchoice.learningtimesevents.org/webinar-june162016/ or on YouTube at https://www.youtube.com/channel/UC4AQ1G-u32Y9OX5hRzdXrQ. IDTF member, Annelise Sklar of UCSD, provides an overview of international government information resources and search tools that are well-suited to assignments related to current issues, the world’s most pressing problems, and potential solutions to them. Shana Wagger from the World Bank demonstrates how the eLibrary can be used by students looking for real-world examples and case studies in international development.

In addition, recordings of “Using the World Bank eLibrary for Country and Regional Research” and “Data & Other New Features in the World Bank eLibrary” are available on the eLibrary site at http://elibrary.worldbank.org/page/training. Dates for future webinars are posted on this page as well.

As always, onsite or virtual training for the World Bank eLibrary is available at any time. To request an onsite or online demo for your institution, contact Devika Levy at dlevy@worldbankgroup.org.

5. Notable Recent and Forthcoming Releases

- Doing Business 2017

  Doing Business 2017 is the 14th publication in a series of annual reports comparing business regulation in 189 economies. The report updates all indicators and ranks economies on their overall ease of doing business, and analyzes reforms to business regulation—identifying which economies are strengthening their business environment the most. It illustrates how reforms in business regulations are being used to analyze economic outcomes for domestic entrepreneurs and for the wider economy. More than 60 economies have used the Doing Business indicators to shape reform agendas and monitor improvements on the ground. In addition, the Doing Business data has generated over 2,100 articles in peer-reviewed academic journals since its inception. Forthcoming October 2016 (ISBN: 978-1-4648-0948-4). US$35.00

- Poverty in a Rising Africa

  Poverty in a Rising Africa is the first of two reports aimed at improving the understanding about progress in poverty reduction in Africa and at articulating a policy agenda to accelerate it. This report documents the data challenges and revisits the key facts about poverty in Africa; the second report will explore ways to accelerate poverty reduction. Available Now. (ISBN: 978-1-4648-0671-1). US$35.00

- Going Universal: How 24 Developing Countries Are Implementing Universal Health Coverage Reforms from the Bottom Up

  Going Universal: How 24 Developing Countries Are Implementing Universal Health Coverage Reforms from the Bottom Up draws on a wealth of new evidence to help enrich the global knowledge base on UHC. It provides a synthesis of UHC reform programs that placed a special focus on expanding coverage in ways inclusive of the poor - who too often get much less from their health systems than the better-off.
The main chapters offer an in-depth analysis of how countries are addressing five key challenges: covering people, expanding benefits, managing money, improving the supply of health care services, and strengthening accountability. Available Now. (ISBN: 978-1-4648-0610-0). US$39.95

- Disease Control Priorities Third Edition, Volume 4 – Mental, Neurological, and Substance Use Disorders. Mental, neurological, and substance use disorders are common, highly disabling, and associated with significant premature mortality. Despite this burden, these disorders have been neglected, particularly in low- and middle-income countries. DCP3 systematically compiles the substantial existing knowledge to remedy this inequity and help policy makers in resource-constrained settings as they prioritize interventions to address these disorders. Available Now. (ISBN: 978-1-4648-0426-7). US$35.00

More from this series:

Disease Control Priorities Third Edition, Volume 2 – Reproductive, Maternal, Newborn, and Child Health Reproductive, Maternal, Newborn, and Child Health is part of a nine volume series for Disease Control Priorities which focuses on health interventions intended to reduce morbidity and mortality. This volume focuses on the need for family planning, preventive care and public health platforms in order to improve reproductive health of pregnant women. Available Now. (ISBN: 978-1-4648-0348-2). US$35.00

Disease Control Priorities Third Edition, Volume 3 – Cancer. Cancer is part of a nine volume series for Disease Control Priorities which focuses on health interventions intended to reduce morbidity and mortality. Volume 3, Cancer, presents the complex patterns of cancer incidence and death around the world and evidence on effective and cost-effective ways to control cancers. This volume focuses on various forms of cancer, treatment, research and its economic impact. Available Now. (ISBN: 978-1-4648-0349-9). US$35.00

Report for 2016 American Library Association Annual Conference in Orlando

The WHO’s homepage is currently dedicated to initiatives addressing several health crises across the globe.

- Zika Virus and Complications
- Yellow Fever
- Ebola Outbreak
- MERS-CoV Outbreak

Each subsite includes statistics, a “situation report,” multimedia content (for public awareness and other purposes), graphics, and an inventory of actions taken by WHO and its country and global partners.

The WHO also just held its 69th General Assembly meeting in Geneva this past May: http://www.who.int/mediacentre/events/2016/wha69/en/. Past assembly summaries are here: http://www.who.int/mediacentre/events/governance/wha/en/.

Updates and New Publications

Recovery Toolkit:
Supporting Countries to Achieve Health Service Resilience

The recovery toolkit is a library of guidance resources in a single place which can be quickly and easily accessed, to guide action.

A key purpose of the Recovery Toolkit is to support countries in the reactivation of health services which may have suffered as a result of the emergency. These services include ongoing programmes such as immunization and vaccinations, maternal and child health services, and noncommunicable diseases. But in addition, and because the Toolkit contains core information needed to achieve functioning national health systems, it also supports countries to implement their national health plans during the recovery phase of a public health emergency.

The World Health Statistics 2016

The World Health Statistics series is WHO’s annual compilation of health statistics for its 194 Member States.

World Health Statistics 2016 focuses on the proposed health and health-related Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and associated targets. It represents an initial effort to bring together available data on SDG health and health-related indicators. In the current absence of official goal-level indicators, summary measures of health such as (healthy) life expectancy are used to provide a general assessment of the situation.

State of inequality: Reproductive, Maternal, Newborn and Child Health

The report delivers both promising and disappointing messages about the situation in low- and middle-income countries. Within-country inequalities have narrowed, with a tendency for national improvements driven by faster improvements in disadvantaged subgroups. However, inequalities still persist in most reproductive, maternal, newborn and child health indicators. The extent of within-country inequality differed by dimension of inequality and by country, country income group and geographical region. There is still much progress to be made in reducing inequalities in RMNCH. This report also includes a good review of methodology for assessing and presenting inequality data.

Guidelines for the Screening, Care and Treatment of Persons with Chronic Hepatitis C infection
(Updated Version, April 2016)

The objectives of these WHO guidelines are to provide updated evidence-based recommendations for the treatment of persons with hepatitis C infection using, where possible, all DAA-only combinations. The guidelines also provide recommendations on the preferred regimens based on a patient’s HCV genotype and clinical history, and assess the appropriateness of continued use of certain medicines. This document also includes existing recommendations on screening for HCV infection and care of persons infected with HCV that were first issued in 2014.

Tracking Universal Health Coverage: First Global Monitoring Report

This report is the first of its kind to measure health service coverage and financial protection to assess countries’ progress towards universal health coverage. It shows that at least 400 million people do not have access to one or more essential health services and 6% of people in low- and middle-income countries are tipped into or pushed further into extreme poverty because of health spending. Note that this report is a good supplementary volume to a recent World Development Rope on healthcare insurance coverage.

Major Document Inventories

Major Document Repositories include the following:

IRIS (WHO’s Institutional Repository for Information Sharing):
The Institutional Repository for Information Sharing (IRIS) is the digital library of WHO’s published material and technical information in full text produced since 1948.

WHOLIS (Database of all WHO Information Products, with online versions, if available attached)
Note that regional indexes are available as well to expedite searching. 30,000+ links to full text documents and 70,000 bibliographic records are accessible; most current and many out of print WHO publications can be accessed in pdf. Stable URLs are given, suitable for inclusion in 856 fields. Note that request for digitization can be entertained by corresponding with repository@who.int (and include WHOLIS record in request).

HINARI Access to Health Research Programme

HINARI is the world’s largest collection of online biomedical and health literature. This public-private partnership provides free access to more than 25,000 online information resources to health institutions in low- and middle- income countries. Since 2002, HINARI has benefited many thousands of health workers, researchers, educators and policy makers contributing to improved world health.

Global Index Medicus

The Global Index Medicus (GIM) provides worldwide access to biomedical and public health literature produced by and within low- and middle- income countries. The main objective is to increase the visibility and usability of this important set of resources. The material is collated and aggregated by WHO Regional Office Libraries on a central search platform allowing retrieval of bibliographical and full text information.

Global Health Data Repository

The GHO data repository provides access to over 50 datasets on priority health topics including mortality and burden of diseases, the Millennium Development Goals (child nutrition, child health, maternal and reproductive health, immunization, HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, malaria, neglected diseases, water and sanitation), non communicable diseases and risk factors, epidemic-prone diseases, health systems, environmental health, violence and injuries, equity among others. In addition, the GHO provides on-line access to WHO's annual summary of health-related data for its 194 Member states: the World Health Statistics 2011. Essential etadata for each indicator is also available.

Multimedia

There is an increasing amount of multimedia material available from WHO
