Introduction

There have been many people of Asian and Pacific Islander descent living in the United States for a long time, with many distinct ethnic communities. These growing communities are starting to receive more recognition in U.S. culture, including in its literature. Gay men, lesbians, bisexuals, and transgender persons make up another minority group that is increasingly visible in our culture. The subject of this bibliography is the intersection of these two minority groups, GLBT Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders.

This bibliography includes resources about gay men, lesbians, bisexuals, and transgender persons that have immigrated to the United States or Canada from Asia (including South Asia and the Mideast), are Americans or Canadians descended from Asian or Pacific Islander immigrants, or are Hawaiian (from the Pacific islands that are also a U.S. state). Although “Asian Americans” are often thought to be only people of East Asian descent who live in the United States, I have expanded the scope of this resource to include people from the rest of Asia and those who have immigrated to Canada as well. There have not been as many books and DVDs available about Asian and Pacific Islander Americans as there have been about other large minority groups such as African Americans and Latinos, but I did find many Internet resources, including websites, online documents, and streaming videos. The books have all been published in print, although most of them may also be found as e-books. Separate sections contain memoirs, literary anthologies, novels, poetry, plays, graphic novels, and children’s and teen books. There is also an index of a few subtopics, such as East Asian, South Asian, bisexual, and transgender resources. Each book and DVD has a link to the OCLC WorldCat record (when available) where you can see which libraries hold the item.

We plan to update this resource in the future. If you have any suggestions or updates, please contact the GLBTRT Resources Committee.
I. GENERAL NONFICTION

   Arab American and Arab feminists, including lesbians, challenge assumptions about gender, sexuality, and their commitments to feminism and justice-centered struggles.

   Catalog of an art exhibition about being a gay Asian American.

   Explores the historical emergence of “queer liberalism” and charts the multiple tensions between it and the unpredictable and unsettled migrations of queer Asian bodies in the global system.

   Explores the role of sexuality in racial formation and the place of race in sexual identity and examines images of Asian American men as emasculated, homosexualized, or queer.

   A collection of essays that document the emergence of queer Asian American identity and communities and their different perspectives. Lambda Literary Award for Anthologies/Non-Fiction.

   These volumes contain essays exploring the lives of LGBTIQ persons in both Islamic nations and Muslim communities in non-Islamic countries, and many Muslims originally come from Asia (including the Mideast).

   Through ethnographic observation of queer Asian American communities and Asian American drag shows, interviews with gay Asian American men, and a reading of current media and popular culture depictions of Asian Americans, the author constructs a theory of queerness that is inclusive of the race and gender particularities of the gay Asian male experience in the United States.

A gay author’s account of the 1997 killing spree of Andrew Cunanan, the gay Filipino American who murdered designer Gianni Versace and four other men and then killed himself as he was hunted by the police.

Uses LGBT and queer studies perspectives to rethink the heteronormative and sometimes heterosexist discourses that have shaped Asian/American racial formation and uses the body to serve as the primary interface between the individual and the social.

Shows how cultural fantasies around the position of the sexual “bottom” overdetermine and refract the meanings of race, gender, sexuality, and nationality in American culture in ways that both enable and constrain Asian masculinity.

Theorizes and enacts a model of queer diasporic reading that tracks the ways that Filipino literature addresses multiple audiences in multiple ways mediated through gender, sexuality, eroticism, and desire.

Explores the roles that religious identities, values, and worldviews play in the fortification and critique of Asian queer migrant identities.

An interdisciplinary study of the issues surrounding homosexuality and Muslim cultures, including their effects on GLBT Muslims living in Western countries, written by a gay Muslim from Bangladesh, now living in Canada.

A young Japanese writer traveled to the United States in the 1890s, was in a passionate relationship with the American writer Charles Warren Stoddard while also engaged in relationships with white women, and then returned to Japan and married a Japanese woman.

22. Trikone. 1987- OCLC
