

Ever thought of working as a Federal Librarian?

Join us for a highly informative session/webcast that is being held during the ALA Annual Conference in Washington, DC!

“Careers in Federal Libraries”

Friday, June 22, 2007

9:00 am – 1:30 pm EDT

Library of Congress, Madison Building, Mumford Room
(public entry to the building after 8:30 am)

A top-notch panel of professional librarians representing the following agencies will describe the diverse opportunities that await Information Professionals of all types in the US Federal Government:

- Army
- Army Corps of Engineers
- Defense Technical Information Center (DTIC)
- Department of Interior
- Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)
- Government Accountability Office (GAO)
- Library of Congress/Congressional Research Service (CRS)
- National Institutes of Health (NIH)
- Smithsonian Institution
- US Geological Service (USGS)
- US Patent & Trademark Office (USPTO)

Seating is limited so to register for this no-charge event, please select this session as part of your ALA Annual registration.

To participate in the webcast (requires the installation of a browser plug-in), connect to <http://opal-online.org> and wait in the virtual auditorium. An archive of the event will be posted to both OPAL-ONLINE and the FLICC web site after the event. Please direct questions to feds.panel@gmail.com.
