

Thank you very much to everyone who participated in the May NMRT Discussion on Collaboration – how libraries can collaborate or partner with other entities to provide programming and/or services. Please find a discussion summary below, as well as the original conversation. Some of the topics discussed included:

- Public and Academic libraries collaborating together on programs
- Utilizing resources of partners (scanning/digitizing, program space)
- Academic libraries and campus offices/organizations working together on programming and initiatives such as Mental Health Screening, Animal visits, etc...)
- Creating depositories on campus (archiving materials, creating permanent digital links, and IR information)
- Libraries as space – art displays

There were some great examples of how libraries can work with others to provide access to programs and activities, as well as research and resources. Please check out the original thread below to get more details!

Thank you to everyone who participated.
