The Public Library Association (PLA) is the largest association dedicated to supporting the unique and evolving needs of public library professionals.

Founded in 1944, PLA serves nearly 8,800 members in public libraries large and small in communities across the United States and Canada, and a growing presence around the world.

PLA provides valuable continuing education opportunities, innovative initiatives tailored specifically for public libraries, and hosts a biennial conference that draws thousands of public library professionals from across the country and around the world.

In collaboration with its parent organization, the American Library Association, PLA strives to help its members shape the essential institution of public libraries by serving as an indispensable ally for public library leaders.
Public Libraries

Released six times per year, our publication provides members with invaluable resources for professional growth, problem-solving, ongoing education, and up-to-date library insights. Authored by public librarians and public library staff members, each issue features articles and regular columns tailored exclusively to the needs of the public library community.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES ONLINE

Public Libraries Online is the digital companion to Public Libraries magazine. Its primary mission is to provide a dynamic platform that addresses the evolving needs and interests of the public library world. With a focus on immediacy, PL Online provides up-to-date articles that shed light on current hot topics and critical issues affecting public libraries. The platform facilitates engagement and interaction, allowing readers to join the conversation. The site covers a wide range of topics, including emerging trends, innovative practices, community engagement, books and authors, technology advancements, and more.
Reach the Decision-Makers in Public Libraries

Readers of Public Libraries magazine play a vital role in shaping library budgets, turning to PL for guidance in strategic purchasing decisions. Their acquisitions span a broad spectrum of essentials, including books in multiple languages, nonprint media, hardware, and software, automation and security systems, furniture, programming supplies, and numerous other resources that contribute to the daily enrichment of public libraries. Additionally, libraries may invest in digital subscriptions to online databases and research platforms, educational materials such as STEM kits and learning aids, audiovisual equipment for events and presentations, preservation and conservation supplies, outreach materials like promotional items and signage, accessibility tools, maker space equipment, professional development resources, environmental sustainability initiatives, and community engagement resources such as mobile libraries and bookmobiles.

Advertorial Guidelines:

- Relevance: Ensure that your advertorial is relevant to our blog's theme and aligns with the interests of our audience. It should offer valuable insights or information related to the topics we cover.
- Transparency: Public Libraries and Public Libraries Online will clearly indicate that the content is sponsored or promotional in nature.
- Quality Content: Submit well-written and engaging advertorials that meet our quality standards. The content should be informative, educational, or entertaining and should provide value to our readers beyond just advertising your products or services.
- Collaboration and Approval: We ask that you send in your post for our approval before finalizing the content to ensure it aligns with our editorial standards and that it maintains a consistent tone and style with our publication. All advertorials will be edited for grammar, style, consistency.
- Accuracy and Substantiation: Any claims or statements made in your advertorial should be accurate and supported by evidence, where applicable. Avoid misleading or deceptive content that could undermine the trust of our audience.
- Value for Readers: Focus on providing value to our readers through your advertorial. Offer insights, tips, or relevant information that our audience can benefit from. Strive to create content that is genuinely useful and engaging.
- We reserve the right to cancel any advertorial for any reason that we deem necessary or appropriate, including but not limited to cases where the content does not meet our standards or align with our content guidelines.

The Public Library Association now has a dedicated site for all artwork associated with our advertising products including e-Blasts, newsletters, online banners, print & advertorials and podcasts.

The site is NOT to be used to place a reservation. You should continue to place all reservations directly with Pam Marino.

All advertisers should have an ad schedule specific to your reservations. Please reach out to Pam Marino if you do not have that schedule. Take careful note of these deadlines as reminders for artwork will not be sent. Missed deadlines will result in repeat ads that we have on file or no ad run at all. Payment will be expected in either case.

Thank you in advance for your cooperation and for being a valued advertiser with The Public Library Association.
Terms & Conditions

All advertising is subject to the publisher's approval. The publisher reserves the right to reject advertising for any reason.

Advertisements are accepted and published entirely on the consideration that the advertiser and its agency, jointly and severally, will indemnify and hold harmless PLA, its officers, agents and employees against any claims or suits based upon any aspect of an advertisement.

Neither the advertiser nor its agency may cancel an advertisement after the reservations deadline. Cancellations must be in writing and submitted to the Advertising Sales Manager by the noted deadline.
