A Guide to Happy Reading

1. If you don't read it, you don't read it.

2. If you start to read a book and you don't like it, stop reading the book.

3. If your child wants to read a book you don't like, don't let them read it.

4. If someone else's child wants to read a book you don't like, that responsibility belongs to the child's parent or guardian.

But what if I start to read a book and I don't like it?

What about the children?

Protect all the children.

Not you.*

*Especially if you are part of the government.
