

It's this ability to provoke emotion through visuals plus the idea that "comics are for children" that makes them a censorship target.

It's smart!

It's a porn!

But I grew up at an art school library where my mom worked... faculty members told me:

"Art should provoke an emotional response or it's failed."

Ten years later, in college...

Isn't it time to give those up?

My granpaw's opinion on comics...

She should be reading real literature.

Oh hush, Bill, at least she's reading.

comics are NOT "just for children" - they're a legitimate adult art form (i.e. Maus or Fun Home).

Do YOU have something to say? Make a comic!

Ask a librarian to show you what you want for your age!

Shhh!

Censorship & ~~comics!~~
