

The American Library Association's Office of Government Relations (OGR) advocates on behalf of ALA's more than 60,000 members (representing all types of libraries – public, academic, K-12 school and special libraries) on the broad range of legislative and policy issues listed below to support and promote library services to the public and others that librarians strive to serve. Contact information for OGR staff, and the primary issues and matters in each of their portfolios together with links to background on each issue, follows:
