Information Forum

Board I

- Christian shared that his non-profit organization, Urban Libraries Unite, has officially gotten 501(c)(3) status as of yesterday.
- Priscille shared her impressions of the success of the National Forum on Teens & Libraries.
- Sandra mentioned that she was able to touch base with some Forum attendees at YALSA 201.
- Sarah F. shared talking points for “School Libraries: at the Common Core of Education” and a questionnaire that Board members should fill out and return to her before the end of conference.
- Jack shared from the President’s lunch that ACRL is considering changing their name, focus, and marketing. Many other Divisions are having a focus on advocacy.
- Jack shared that the president of ASCLA had given out copies of an advocacy tool from the CA State Library called “The Emerging Story of California Public Libraries” which shows the importance and history of libraries.

Board II

- Chris shared that he, Linda, Beth, and Nicole Munguia met with new tech partner to talk about the badge infrastructure. He also shared that the badges program this morning thanked everyone who came out for it.
- Sarajo shared that Scottie Bowdich from Penguin commented that she was interested in attending and supporting the YALSA Literature Symposium but that its timing was problematic.
- Sarah F. commended Francisca and the rest of the group in the Coffee with the Candidates program. The session was a nice mix of statements from the candidates and time for questions from the audience.
- Jack reported that Wendy Stephens, YALSA Blog member manager, informed him that many Divisions are sunsetting wikis.
- Jack shared from BARC meeting that ALA staff will be getting a 1% raise for the first time in five years.
- Sandra shared that at the Youth Council Caucus discussion focused on school libraries.

- Clara Bohrer, YALSA's BARC representative, expressed that Divisions often don't get the credit they deserve for what they bring to big ALA. YALSA provides a home for members with the parent organization, provides programs and services that bring attention to issues surrounding teens and libraries which drive revenue to ALA. Also, interest from YALSA's net asset balance goes to ALA. The benefit is more than just the overhead YALSA pays to ALA. She also shared that there is a deficit in ALA's net asset balance and that they are trying to manage the general fund budget. BARC is in favor of staff raises and has communicated that to management. As a whole, Division finances collectively are in a good place.

Board III

- Rob Banks, YALSA's rep to the ALA Executive Board, updated the group on several items including: getting support and information for the taskforce on school libraries; the Digital Content Working Group has been working hard on issues surrounding ebooks and it seems that there is beginning to be some progress and action; Maureen Sullivan's is community engagement initiative; and the Neal-Schuman acquisition specifically that it was purchased with a loan which will be paid back from profits from publishing. He also reminded the Board about the 15 by 15 planned giving campaign and encouraged members to participate.
- Jack shared that there was an article in Cognotes about the National Forum on Teens & Libraries.
- Mary Hastler shared that the Digital Literacy Taskforce has just wrapped up and a report will be on OITP's web site. The taskforce is recommending that all information and resources be collected in one place. She also reminded the group that Digital Learning Day is coming up. She shared information from the ALA Conference Committee including their plan to record all programs at Annual if permission is given and that they are looking at changing the way programs are scheduled.
