The Friends' Library Store

Discover us as you explore downtown Portland

Offering
high quality used books and unique literary gifts for book lovers of all levels

If you're setting out to explore downtown Portland, don't miss the historic Central Library, covering an entire city block at 801 S.W. 10th. First opened in 1913, the building was extensively and lovingly restored in 1997. Today this National Register of Historic Places landmark invites you to immerse yourself in an elegant blend of turn-of-the-century grandeur and unsurpassed modern library resources.

The Friends' Library Store

Among Central Library's unique offerings is the Friends' Library Store, housed just inside the building's main entrance. Operated by a non-profit community organization called The Friends of Multnomah County Library, the store offers a wide selection of quality, inexpensive used books and gifts that celebrate reading, writing and creativity.

Imagine all your best book finds over the years shelved together in one inviting place — that's the Friends' Library Store!

Support a Vital Community Institution

Your purchases at the Friends' Library Store supports neighborhood libraries and community outreach services. Recently-funded library programs include:

- Teen Lounges & Homework Centers
- Pageturners book discussion groups held at numerous local libraries
- Topic-specific books and teacher's guides offered to patrons in a "Bucket of Books"
- Author lectures for children and teens
