The Journal of Research on Libraries and Young Adults (JRLYA)

Launched in November 2010, The Journal of Research on Libraries and Young Adults is an online open-access, peer-reviewed journal published on a continuous cycle. Paper presentations for the Young Adult Services Symposium and the ALA Midwinter Trends in YA Paper Presentation are among the research articles that are published in the journal.

The journal's purpose is to enhance the development of theory, research, and practices to support young adult library services.

The Journal of Research on Libraries and Young Adults seeks high-quality original research on the following topics:

- the informational and developmental needs of young adults;
- the management, implementation, and evaluation of library services for young adults;
- other critical issues relevant to librarians who work with young adults; and
- literary and cultural analysis of classic and contemporary writing for young adults.
